ROYAL NAVY

Command Of The Guardian

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Aug. 21.

Captain G. C. Cooke, late in command of the cruiser "Calcutta" on trooping service to China, has been appointed in command of H.M.S. "Guardian," netlayer and target-towing vessel, in succession to Captain K. H. L. Mackenzie, who has commanded her since she was completed in the spring of 1933. The "Guardian" is at present giving leave at Devonport.

Captain Cooke was one of the last Britannia cadets, and entered Dartmouth College in 1905, passing out as a midshipman in January, 1907, to H.M.S. "Cornwallis." During the War he served as watch-keeper and gunnery officer in the light cruisers "Fearless," "Attentive," and "Active." He was promoted to commander in June, 1926 after being first lieutenant-commander of the "Impregnable," training establishment; and to captain in June, 1933, after being commander of the battleship "Rodney." He commanded the sloop "Petersfield" in China in 1926-28.

RESERVISTS AT THE NAVAL REVIEW

A total of 1,786 officers and ratings of the naval reserves served in the Fleet during the period of the Naval Review. This total, of course, does not include any pensioners or members of the Royal Fleet Reserve who volunteered for duty. From the Royal Naval Reserve there were present in the Fleet 128 officers and 550 ratings; from the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve 158 officers and 750 ratings; and from the R.N. Wireless Auxiliary Reserve 200 officers and ratings. The attendance from the last-named Reserve, which was only formed three years ago, is of special interest. Members of this force receive no pay, retainers, or allowances until mobilized.

APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments were made by the Admiralty yesterday:

Capts.—H. B. Maltby, to Pembroke, as Capt. Supt., Sheerness Dockyard (Sept. 4); W. G. Benn, to President, for duty inside Admiralty (Sept. 18), and as Director of Navigation (Oct. 2); C. S. Arbuthnot, to Revenge (Oct. 6), and to Revenge, in command, and as Flag Capt. and C.S.O. to V/A Sir C. M. Forbes (undated); C. M. Blackman, to Keppel, in command, and as Capt. (D), First Destroyer Flotilla (Oct. 30); and L. E. Holland, to Victory, in command, and as Commodore, 2nd class, in command of R.N.B. (Nov. 7).

COMMANDER WEIR, RETIRED

Lieutenant-Commander P. W. R. Weir, who has retired at his own request with the rank of commander from August 11, has been 31 years in the Navy. On passing out from Dartmouth and the cruiser Cumberland in January, 1909, he joined H.M.S. Indomitable, Captain H. G. King Hall, as midshipman. He served throughout the War as a lieutenant. For the first year he was in H.M.S. Marlborough, flagship of the 1st Battle Squadron. He afterwards became 1st lieutenant of the destroyer Murray, Commander Taprell Dorling, and from March 1917, commanded successively P. 35 and the destroyers Pincher and Plucky. He commanded other destroyers after the War. In 1928-30 he was Officer-Instructor to the Sussex Division of the R.N.V.R., and in 1931-33 served in the Admiralty yacht Enchantress.

ROYAL MARINE GUARD DUTIES

The Royal Marine contingent which is to take over guard duties at the Royal palaces while the Guards are away on their annual training arrived in London on Saturday and will mount guard for the first time on August 24. Lieutenant Colonel T. L. Hunton, M.V.O., O.B.E., is in command, with Captain R. F. Cornwall, M.B.E., of the Chatham Division, as Adjutant, and Captain P. S. G. O'Donnell, M.V.O., also of the Chatham Division, as musical director.

Lieutenant-Colonel Hunton was made O.B.E. for service in the air, during which he served in command of the marine contingent in H.M.S. Minotaur in China and North Sea (including the Battle of Jutland); and from September, 1917, as intelligence officer on the staff of Rear-Admiral M. Culme-Seymour in H.M.S. Lord Nelson. 1926-27 he served in H.M.S. Renown during the tour of the Duke and Duchess of York to the new Federal capital of Canberra, on the conclusion of which he was made M.V.O.

GERMANY'S NEW WARSHIPS

2 Battle Cruisers Nearly Ready

Germany's first full-sized fighting ships, the two 26,000-ton battle cruisers, secretly begun last autumn, are approaching the launching stage. They will be named Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, after the famous armoured cruisers of von Spee's squadron in 1914.

Great speed, robust protection, and an overwhelming volume of gunfire are outstanding features of the design, to which four units are to be built eventually. The contract speed is 30 knots. Heavy armour plate is worked into sides and decks, and there is elaborate protection against torpedoes.

Each ship will mount 12 of the new Krupp 11in guns, which were first tried out in the "pocket battleship" Deutschland. Their mountings, electrically worked, are designed for very quick loading, and the rate of fire per gun is three aimed rounds a minute.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS

The Scharnhorst, therefore, will be able to discharge 36 670lb shells per minute, and her guns will outrange those of every British ship except the Nelson, Rodney and Hood. She will have also a powerful secondary armament of 5.9in and anti-aircraft guns, besides torpedo tubes.

Two German armoured cruisers, each of 10,000 tons, will be afloat before the end of this year. They are described as a "reply" to the French Algérie type, but will have better protection and mount nine 3in guns, as against eight in the French ship.

A large number of 1,625-ton flotilla leaders, armed with 5in guns, and at least 12 submarines, are due to be launched between now and December.

The German naval personnel, which before the process of secret rearmament began last year stood at 15,000, has already been doubled, and is still growing rapidly. Over 5,000 former long-service bluejackets have been advanced to warrant and petty officers and are mainly employed in training new entries.

Two years ago the main German dockyard at Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea, had only a skeleton staff. To-day it employs about 13,000 hands, and is throbbing with activity.

BACK TO THE CITY

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Aug. 21.

The "back to the city" movement is gathering way. There are now in different parts three blocks of flats built or under construction within the City radius, and schemes for more flats are being planned. The chief block is rapidly nearing completion on the site of Clifford's Inn, behind Fleet Street. That queer, romantic, little extinct Inn of Court vanished last winter, but some of its trees remain, and the gardens of the Public Record Office lie on the north of the site. The flats there range from one to three rooms, with hall, bathroom, and kitchenette, and the rents from £110 to £225 a year. Unusual features are communal amenities such as guest-rooms and a large lounge that tenants can enjoy, and there is also a restaurant.

In Crane Court, a small cul-de-sac on the north of Fleet Street, there is a block of flats with living-room with bed recess and bathroom for £130. These courts were used in Johnson's time for residences, but have long been given over to printing-houses. Ludgate Hill now has a block of 27 flats of a larger size in a reconstructed warehouse building facing St. Paul's.

RICH MATERIALS

Give Dignity To Evening Gowns

White and pearly grey satin is being featured in the graceful evening modes of the moment, writes a correspondent. The newest make of satin is thick and gleaming, the ideal material for the moulded line, and gowns show the fish train.

The newer decolletage is easy to wear. It is cut low front and back. Simple lines are best satins and thick crepes in black or pastel-colourings, not forgetting white and silver. If possessed of jewels, the wearer can strike a note of true elegance.

Wraps must naturally be of similar and somewhat costly character. Ermine is the ideal fur, especially if the scheme is white, silver or all-black. Taffeta capes in 18th century colours are cool for hot nights. There is a new blush-rose-pink that is very attractive, especially with tiny wreaths of roses worn in the hair Rings and wreaths of camellias and roses among curls are tied with ribbons and jewels.

Women welcome the continuance of long lines, with added Eastern draperies held by jewels. The Indian Sari is worn with dresses of soft fabrics. Grecian gowns and sandals are still worn, but more straight-forward styles in gorgeous fabrics and of simple line are the safest purchase.

SKIRT OF MANY TOPS

The 1860 draper, with skirt dragged up at the back and worn with different tops, is an intriguing and useful fashion by which we ring the changes for both day and evening occasion. A variety of "tops," high and low, is most useful for the holiday suit-case. One woman I know who travels a great deal take two skirts, both beautifully fitted in thick satin, and just touching the ground. One is in white and the other in black. For these she has six different tops. Four are for evening, and two for semi-evening year. One all-black top has tiny puffed sleeves and a decolletage that would do for either day or dinner wear. The one in white crepe has the new small turn-over collar at the base of the and an elbow sleeve.

A bright begonia-pink top in taffeta is charming with a frilled fichu, tiny fussy sleeves, a short basque just clearing the hips, and a fairly low décolletage.

A creamy stiffened lace top shows long sleeves and a cut-out berthe, edged with scarlet and white daisies. A plainly cut blue taffeta blouse does up at the back with small silvered buttons. This model comes to the hip-line with a wide belt of silver. It had plain sleeves and a neck-line that reaches nearly to the throat, but is draped with a curious silvery blue lamé.

The remaining top is in a white and silvery crepe-cloqué, cut rather longer, in tunic form.

I mention these tops as a help to the woman who directly she is going on a holiday or visit has a desire to rush off and buy new clothes. She often finds that she has accumulated far too many that have no relation to each other.

There are certain holiday haunts where regulation dinner gowns would be out of place, and yet most of the young people want a chance to wear their pretty clothes on holiday, especially away from home.

Ultra-Smart skirts are so tight that they must be slit from the knee down wards. Sometimes two slits are required to enable the wearer to move easily.

With long dresses, either touching the ground all round or ending in a double train, the slit skirt is becoming to the long lithe figure, especially in swathed crêpes and satins. One model I saw fashioned on these very tight lines was in a pale pale blue blue cloth. It was superbly draped and worn with a long cape of black satin with a silver fox collar.

Lovers of black are experimenting with jet once more, and a variety of glittering sequins. There are attactive sequined frocks, especially in deep blue. Emerald green and white is a charming evening combination of the moment.

Round The Shops

Lane Crawfords store have just unpacked their new Autumn and Winter goods. You should see all the nice new Bags, Light Weight Dresses and beautiful Cocktail and Evening Gowns.

There was a very smart Petunia Velvet Gown with the new full-smocked sleeves, just the dress for Cocktail Parties.

The little Olive Green Tricotine Suit with new full sleeves was finished off with a gold and silver lame bow, and had a jacket to match, and was admired by many.

Another very pretty suit was in Brown and Torquoise Silk.

KNITTED SUITS

Maizee's are showing some beautiful Silk and Light Weight Knitted Suits for the Autumn, and a few extremely smart Evening Gowns in Satins and Silk.

RIVELLE'S SALE

Rivelle's sale closes on Saturday so those that have not yet paid this shop in the Arcade a visit should do so, as there are some nice dresses selling for $5 and hats from $3.

MAYO'S

Now is the time to bring your old felts to Mayo's, as they clean and remodel old felts marvellously well, and it is returned to you like a new hat.

This well known Ladies' foot wear shop is showing some very attractive new shoes for the Autumn and Winter in all makes. Gordon's shoes are noted for it's Quality, Style and Comfort.

POINTERS FROM PARIS

At recent Paris parties the open neckline has been worn. Blouses have it and dresses have it. Coats are collarless, and the head rises free and gracefully to carry a very large hat set at a gallant angle with no security but an elastic which cannot save it when a breeze catches the brim.

The open neckline has also brought back the fashion of necklaces, pearl strings, flat cut crystals and other jewellery of the decorative order, much of it Eastern in design and metal.

Few women confuse their neckline with frills and ruches and feathers. Clean-cut lines are imperative to support the be-curled and comby heads which the hair dressers build up so skilfully, and which the milliners surmount by such temperamental hats.

FOR BRIGHTER COOKERY

All good cooks know that a touch of Bovril greatly improves their soups, gravies and casserole dishes. For Bovril not only adds nourishment and flavour on its own account, but brings out these qualities in the foods to which it is added. No kitchen is complete without Bovril.

PARIS FASHIONS

Some Audacities Of The Season

Schiaparelli's new style unites primness with languor. An evening dress has baggy purple satin trousers under a long, slim black satin skirt, and a more or less Chinese mandarin's coat. She dresses the head in a chenille net over a low-set chignon. This net, in different colours, goes with day and evening frocks alike. A bow may decorate the evening net. It is surprising to see the change which it makes. Turbulent curls, lacquered coils, are won, according to Schiaparelli, things of the past.

Another innovation is a mask of white plaster fixed to a gilded wooden handle. It is carried with evening dresses. The mask has curled eyelashes and painted lips. Beside these audacious irregularities are the neatest of tailormades and frocks for town and country that can be imagined. The jackets may have braided and fur trimmed fronts fastening close to the throat. The skirts are slim and not too short; the basque of the jacket is springy without being full. A long or three-quarter coat may be full at the knee, have wide sleeves, and a collar that is draped to be drawn over the head as a hood. The hats are small and round, and tilted forward and a little to the side. They have a high crown and a long, fexible pheasant feather waving backwards. A plaited chignon, covered with a chenille net, sits tidily at the back of the head

IN COLOUR

In black, brown red, green, there are town and country clothes which are neat to the point of primness. Bright colours in tweeds are usual. Sleeves are wide at the shoulders in dresses; coat sleeves are Raglan in shape. The leg-of-mutton sleeve is common in dresses. Blouses are made in bright, widely checked woollen materials and in crêpes specially printed for Schiaparelli. The most striking pattern in these is that of a large crowing cock in brilliant plumage occupying the full front of the blouse. Brass manacles and chains are worn on black. A house dress shows one trousered leg only.

Jean Patou has made some lovely evening dresses in purple and mauve crêpes. He drapes them in Greek fashion looped from shoulder to hem, one shoulder being left bare except for a slender strap. The same style of dress is made in bright geranium-red crêpe. Long, slender, with filmy draperies correcting heavy outlines, these dresses are charming. For the afternoon he is making well-tailored dresses in mulberry coloured crêpe satin. The skirts fit the hips and hang well to above the ankles. The sleeves are long and tight, the bodies are bloused behind, the shoulder line is smooth, the waistline, marked by a belt, dips at the back. Olive and reseda green, brown, and grey are colours with which Patou works when making morning and afternoon dresses and coats.

Bruyère is making winter coats with hoods to be worn in the place of hats. In speckled grey with fringed edges, in roughfaced brown woollens, soft and knobbly, in figured tweeds, these coats are invitingly comfortable. The divided skirt, discreetly cut, is common in this collection. Under it are shorts. Sleeves are wide and long on dresses and coats. Capes are drawn about the arms to look like sleeves. The shoulder line is wide and Raglan in cut.

WHAT THE STARS WEAR IN HOLLYWOOD

TAILORED SUITS FOR SMARTNESS

The smartest girl in the Hollywood fashion parade to-day is the girl who wears a tailored suit This opinion is backed up by the number of suits seen in the film capital.

Pretty Mary Brian, appearing in Paramount's new W. C. Fields picture—Everything Happens At Once—wears a tailor-made of grey sharkskin, a youthful straw sailor hat, and a frothy blouse of white cotton net, beautifully ruffled.

Gracie Allen, who will cause another uproar in Paramount's The Big Broadcast Of 1935, chooses a navy gabardine suit with a fresh looking jumper of white silk pique. With it she wears a round sailor of leghorn, edged in navy, and carries one of the new, washable collapsible pipue handbags.

Wendy Barrie, the English actress, is the romantic interest in The Big Broadcast. Her tailored suit is a soft grey worsted with classic lines, but it has lapels of navy blue linen which startle the conventionalists. A p'n-tucked blouse of the same navy linen carries a cluster of navy linen cornflowers sewn to the rather high neckline in an original manner.

GREY ANGORA

Madge Evans, playing opposite Fred MacMurray in Paramount's Men Without Names, follows the sportswear tendency in fashion and wears a lacy-knit sweater of grey angora under her tailleur, then knots a lemon yellow linen handkerchief round her throat, and tucks the ends into the round neckline of the sweater. Her hat is of oxford grey felt to match her suit.

Astrid Allwyn, a new player who appears with Herbert Marshall and Sylvia Sidney in Paramount's Accent On Youth, appears in a beige flannel suit with a shimmering satin blouse ornamented with a huge, jewelled clip. Across her shoulders she swings a lavish, sable scarf.

MONOGRAM AND KIMONO

The monogram idea has influenced the latest kimono designs.

In her Paramount film—Paris Love Song—Mary Ellis shows how original and striking these kimonos can be seen shortly at the Queen's Theatre.

Hers is made of silky, hairy angora, and her initials—or rather, the initials of the character she portrays—from a large, embroidered motif in jet sequins.

STAR'S SKIN-BEAUTY SECRET

Margaret Sullavan, featured in Paramount's musical romance—So Red The Rose—sets a good example to girls all over the world, who find that their skin suffers from sitting under hair driers. Miss Sullavan always takes a jar of skin cream to her hairdresser's, and nonchalantly anoints her face just before going under the driers.

This treatment not only keeps the skin from drying too much, but the heat from the drier tends to drive the complexion cream right into the pores where it belongs.

FLOWERS TO HOLD PERFUME

Claudette Colbert, has a brand new perfume theory. Instead of scent here and there on her gowns and handkerchiefs, she buys floral "gadgets" made by a famous perfumer.

These are in gardenia, rose, violet, heliotrope, carnation, and geranium; are made like artificial flowers and are loaded with their respective odours. They may be hung in one's clothes or attached to hangers, and the result is a delicate, elusive scent.

MAE WEST'S POSIES

Mae West, star of Paramount's Goin' To Town, has discovered a way of getting the most out of the summer fashions. The famous blonde star wears with dark clothes a navy blue, milan hat with a cluster of tiny silk flowers right in the centre of the crown.

Matching these flowers is another small bunch of posies, which tucks into the belt of the frock worn with the hat.

THE "CRUSADES" INFLUENCE

The "Crusades" influence on modern gowns has won the heart of Hollywood's smart set. Many of the gowns which Loretta Young wears as Berengaria in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount spectacle—The Crusades—have been copied by the foremost designers and are enjoying immense popularity.

Kitty Carlisle, singing player, is wearing a magnificent model consisting of a long white robe with a brief shoulder cape of cardinal red velvet. Her tricorne hat of the same red velvet carries out the medieval feeling, while a thick golden cord with a tassel which encircles the waist, adds the final touch.

Miss Carlisle, incidentally, is stressing the importance of navy blue for the late summer. With a hat of navy milan carrying a bouquet of silk posies tucked into the brim, she wears a navy crepe frock, open at the throat. A deep wine-coloured scarf is tucked smartly into the opening.

THE SUIT FOR SUMMER

Joan Bennett, who is featured in Private Worlds, has chosen just the right kind of suit for her mid-summer wardrobe.

It consists of a navy blue skirt of sheer wool crepe, topped by a jacket with a beautiful ruffled gilet of powder blue linen.

Patent leather shoes with white bows and a hat of powder blue felt complete a charming picture.

SYLVIA SIDNEY'S MODELS

Sylvia Sidney, whose next Paramount picture is Accent On Youth, with Herbert Marshall, is leading the Hollywood fashion parade with two of her latest styles.

One is a pyjama suit of paisley lamé, which Miss Sidney wears in Accent On Youth, and which shows a decided Persian influence.

The trousers are long and wide enough for comfort and grace, and the tunic is the new knee-length type. The high neckline ties casually in a bow of the fabric, and a bright red belt of supple suede leather fastens with metal rings. The figured design is on Persian carpet lines.

Her other model shows a new use of black and white. Instead of the usual, concentrated touches of white her black chiffon dress is trimmed with narrow rows of white lace. Miss Sidney wears with this a brief wrap of black velvet trimmed with a wide band of silver fox.

TRANSPARENCY IN CHIFFON

More transparency is seen nightly in Hollywood's evening gowns.

Gail Patrick, who appears in Paramount's Mississippi with Bing Crosby, wears a gown in black chiffon over a satin slip. The chiffon is banded by row after row of narrow black velvet ribbon. The criss-cross bodice is novel, and the black velvet belt clasps with a buckle of crystal cabochons.

GLITTER...GLITTER...GLITTER

The necessary glitter for a temperament as glamorous as Lyda Roberti's is supplied in a gown which she wears in her next Paramount picture—The Big Broadcast Of 1935.

On a dinner gown of peach crepe it is supplied by accents of crystal beads and rhinestones. A double skirt treatment and long, tightly fitted sleeves, add to the fascination of this gown, over which Lyda wears a sable trimmed peach crepe evening wrap.

Another costume which Miss Roberti wears in The Big Broadcast Of 1935 is a formal suit of light beige wool, trimmed with extremely wide bands of beige fox. A satin blouse in the same tone of beige is accented by diamond and ruby clips.

VISORS FOR THE BEACH

Eyeshades on the lines of visors are the latest thing in Hollywood beachwear.

Rosalind Keith, featured in Paramount's The Glass Key and Annapolis Farewell, wears a beach suit with a striped halter, and a bandana handkerchief round the head which projects into a peak over the eyes.

LONDON FASHIONS

For almost any kind of holiday into which sport enters at all, as it does, of course, into nearly everyone's summer holiday today, the sports blouse is exceedingly important.

You can have it in washing silk or in one of the many mesh fabrics; in cotton or linen or knitted thread; in fine angora or, for spectator sports, in tie-silk.

Nearly all of them have short plain sleeves with small, turned-back cuffs; most of them have pockets; one, two, and occasionally four. All have plain, turn-over collars, fitting closely at the back of the neck, some round and fitting high in front, but more often pointed; a few are finished at collar and cuffs with small fringe.

GAYER TONES

White, natural and beige go very well with linen or linen tween shorts-and-shirt or plain suits in which brown is the predominating colour; but the gayer tones of red or rust, green or yellow or blue are lovely with white or off-white sports things and make the landscape much more cheerful.

An extra suit with the proper accessories is always a welcome acquisition.

Just now, when no one wants to make extensive purchases in the way of clothes, a new suit may make all the difference between a wardrobe which is prepared for all eventualities and one which is not.

Stiebel showed several black ones in his autumn collection, usually with a gay contrasting blouse and with the lapels of the coat faced in the same stuff as the blouse. The jackets are on the short side, neatly fitted at the waist, and sometimes with a bit of a kick below it at the back.

A dull blue-green tweed, excellent for between seasons, has a long, loose coat collared with lynx and a slim little frock. The rather deep neck-line of this is filled in with an attractive high turnover collar and stock-tie effect in pale lemon yellow.

SAINTLY CROWNS

We shall wear halos this autumn, says Vogue, forecasting the new mode. Little ones and big ones, transparent ones and opaque ones, straight and saintly ones and slightly cockeyed ones. They're inspired in many cases by Italian Renaissance pictures. But the milliners give them a deft touch of modernity to make them look Autumn 1935.

MODERATION AT CHANEL'S

Chanel has shown a collection of well-made, simple clothes, neatly tailored for the morning, sufficiently soft and alluring for the afternoon and evening.

Black, navy blue, brown, and bottle-green woollens are the materials. Velvet, lame, net, brocades, and lace are used for the evening.

There are no audacious fashions in the Chanel collection. She believes that now is a time for moderation in cut and colour.

Her evening dresses in black velvet may have spiral draperies or flounces of organ pipe pleats.

INFORMAL CLOTHES

For Modern Playtime Mood

Mood plays an increasingly important part in deciding when we may please ourselves. Dressing gowns are perhaps the most variable factors in the wardrobe intime. One wants quite a number of these even for a working minimum.

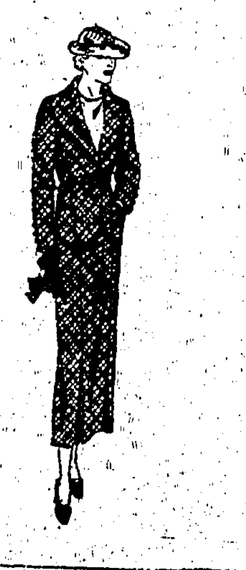
There is the shaggy bathrobe of towelling or Terry cloth, for purely practical bathroom wear. Many women begin the day in a severely tailored affair of striped silk, cut on masculine lines and girdled with a silken and tasselled rope. Other breakfast time gowns are of moss crepe in clean blue or yellow checks with trim white collar and cuffs.

The play-suit of crisp plaid gingham, cut like a dancer's practice garment, or a toddler's rompers, is essential for the modern woman's morning limbering up exercises.

Instead of house frocks, or the conventional country skirt and knitted jumper, many women have taken to grey flannel "slacks" worn with a sports shirt or pull-over in bright wool.

Then we come to that most comfortable and glamorous garment, the teagown. You might ask, when is a dressing gown not a dressing gown? The answer is, when it has a train—because then it is a teagown. The slightest wisp of a train gives the degree of dignity and elegance which makes the gown suitable for wear as hostess gown at cocktail time, or for dinner at home. I know at least one woman who entertains a great deal and who never buys an evening gown. She is of the teagown type and simply has made for her a succession of "super" teagowns which she wears, with distinct success, as evening dresses.

Sleeves are most important in a teagown. They may fit the armhole and descend in medieval draperies from the elbow, or as you may see in the new ones, have no distinct armhole at all and be cut straight along from the waist line of the gown. Most teagowns are cut on the crossover line in front. An exception to this style is shown in a negligee designed for wear over a favourite nightdress. This is just caught together at the waist in front, and thence hangs open to the floor.



DOTING THE EYES

Should I really go out in the day-time with my eyes shadowed? asks the English woman. Certainly says Vogue, in the new number. You should as soon be minus your lipstick these days as minus your eye-shadow. Don't forget the trick of blending two shades together and for evening try the gold and silver shadows; they give a light that shines by night

SHADES OF CLEOPATRA

Low, clinging drapery for Autumn, subtly moulding the hips, the knees, or even taking a swing round your ankles, is wrapped looking evening gowns, with a bow to Greece and newl Egypt. That is the evening silhouette which Vogue forecasts for Autumn. And your evening fabric? Choose Heavy Italian stuffs that will make you rich draperies, or transparent gauzes that will wrap you close.

CULTIVATING ARTIST'S IDEAL OF BEAUTY

Make-Up To Blend With Modern Dressing

Beauty has always been one of the chief attributes of women, but surely there has been no period like the present in which so much money has been spent on its cultivation. Yet with all the thought and pursuit of beauty most women need to spend remarkably little time in attaining that soignee appearance which is deemed so essential to-day.

This is probably because beauty culture has become a matter of orderly routine in the life of most women. Modern beauty is a "quick-time" process. A few minutes devoted to health exercises each day make the figure more supple. There are special beauty creams which speed up the good results of a facial and throat massage. Even a home beauty mask treatment can be achieved in less than a quarter of an hour. As for make up, the more deftly and rapidly it is applied, the more successful and artistic the result will be.

SHADES OF THE PALETTE

One reason why women can make up so quickly nowadays is the great variety of artistic colour tones and tints in which all make-up is prepared. Rouge and lipstick are shown in many gradations of colour from the palest wild rose to the deeper geranium tints, embodying all the complexion hues which are used by the artist in building up the flesh tones in a portrait.

The use of protective creams which are also a powder foundation is one of the beauty secrets of the finished appearance of many women. These creams have skin nourishing qualities, too, and can be bought in a series of different tints to suit fair or tanned tones of colouring in complexions and powders. A new beauty film, with its accompanying powder, is made in fascinating skin tones.

Coiffures, too, demand special attention, for the loveliest face in the world can be marred by a framing of "undressed" hair. Some of the new coiffures are not too easy, but having decided to adopt a style, however difficult, the wearer insists that it shall be immaculate; and with the aid of setting lotions keeps it so.

From the point of view of the artists, whose mission in life it is to study beauty in every aspect, women in symmetry of figure and beauty of feature have never appeared so lovely as they are to-day. This is a triumph for the beauty specialists, and one of the chief reasons is the prevailing ideal of the purely natural type of good looks rather than the exotic in all matters of make-up. Beauty experts are excelling in their newest productions as each season comes.

Colours in rouge and lipstick are "alive," yet more subtle. Powder tints are more carefully toned. Textures are finer, less obtrusive. Eye cosmetics are graded in tone with the feature scheme of colouring. There are special eyelash cosmetics for shades of brown, blue grey and violet eyes.

NEED NOT CLASH

Aesthetic care is used in actual making-up. No woman nowadays need be seen wearing an unbecoming frock which clashes in colour with her own individual colouring. She may wear any colour she chooses, and merely changes her make-up slightly to "go" with her frock. The change may be of the most subtle description, a little different shade of rouge, powder and lipstick, but the effect is magical and bestows on the whole ensemble just that keynote of harmony in tone and colouring that shou'd satisfy an artist's conception of beauty.

Every woman to-day feels it incumbent on her to appear at her best. To this end she diets and expends a definite amount of time—and usually a large amount of money. Natural beauty can be enhanced, figures reduced to Venus-like proportions with the help of reducing baths and exercises, or "modelled" to becoming curves by massage and skin foods. There are youth-giving face mask treatments.

Every phase of modern beauty culture has its own group of specialists, whose whole duty in their business life is to make the modern woman more fascinating than ever.

FEWER MURDERS IN F.M.S.

One European Victim

Singapore, Aug. 30.

The average number of murders yearly in the F.M.S. is 17 but in 1933 there were 69.

Last year—states the annual report of the Police Department—there were only 35 reports classifiable under the heading of murder.

The majority of these reports were the outcome of unpremeditated outbursts of fury and did not come within the category of "murders of the first degree." As such they could not be classified as crime which is preventable by police action.

In thirty-one of these reports the identity of the perpetrators was established and twenty-eight cases were prosecuted in Court, resulting in 14 convictions; there were eleven cases pending at the close of the year. In one instance the murderer committed suicide immediately after having killed his victim.

One of the murders was committed in the course of gang-robbery and one in the course of robbery. The following motives were responsible for the others.

Quarrels or feuds	8
Sexual jealousy	15
Revenge	3
Not ascertained	7

INTRIGUES WITH WOMEN

Included in the total of 35 murders were two which, though first coming to the notice of the police in 1934, were actually committed in 1930 and 1933, respectively; both these were Tamil (Southern Indian) cases.

Both of these cases were the outcome of intrigues with women.

In addition to the thirty-five reports finally classified as murder, twenty-one cases originally reported as such were after investigation, reclassified as lesser offences, two of them proving to be suicides.

One instance where a suicide was originally believed to be a murder led to the arrest of a Malay on the charge of having shot and killed a companion. His statement led to the exhumation of the corpse, when a further examination bore out the statement and showed that the original post-mortem had been faulty.

There was one instance of a European being done to death when an employee of the Perak River Hydro-Electric Co. was fatally stabbed by his Brahman clerk, who had suffered from a sense of having been slighted; the clerk was sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

SUNSET ON GLASGOW

I saw the city of gold
By the unshadowing hill.
At sunset when unfold
The wings of good and ill,
I saw the city of gold
With beauty thrill.
I saw the city of gold,
And knew my coward will
Made freeman, winged, bold,
On the unshadowing hill.
I saw the city of gold,
I see it still.

OUR LITTLE GIRL

Glorious Shirley Temple, whose natural art is second to none, and who has, in the words of Irvin S. Cobb, "made more people happy and made more children laugh than any child your age in the history of the world," is here again.

Her new Fox Film picture, "Our Little Girl," starts its engagement to-day at the King's Theatre. It is called her greatest!

This is said to be Shirley's most touching picture. She plunges into an emotional adventure that sings in the heart as she bravely meets a bewildering crisis while those who are nearest and dearest to her grope in the shadows of misunderstanding.

Shirley's brave smile revives a waning love, when she pleads for her mother to return, and runs away from home to reunite her parents.

"Our Little Girl" is said to have appeal for young and old. For the young in heart as well as in years, there is a thrilling circus sequence. Producer Edward Butcher spared no expense in bringing a complete circus, big tent, wild animals, elephants, and all. "Poodles" Hanneford, world-famed crown and rider, has an exciting act, clowning, riding and falling. Other circus celebrities seen here are "The Clarkonians" in a swinging act, and the clowns Hambone, Dumbell, Smiling Sambo.

The direction is by John Robertson.

OUR DAILY BREAD

King Vidor launches his career as a full-fledged independent producer with "Our Daily Bread," the powerful human drama which is scheduled to come to the King's Theatre on Tuesday.

Although Vidor has been making his own productions for years, this is the first time he has done his own financing, which puts him definitely in the independent producer class, along with Samuel Goldwyn, Darryl F. Zanuck, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and other producers who release through United Artists.

Vidor established headquarters in Hollywood at the United Artists Studios, where he shot his interiors. Most of the picture, however, was taken on location at Tarzana, the Edgar Rice Burroughs ranch in the rolling San Fernando Valley, where the largest set built this year was constructed.

The story concerns an average young city couple, down on their luck, who take a new lease on life and love when they find themselves transplanted to a farm, and surround themselves with a group of disinherited folks, like themselves, from all walks of life.

The cast, headed by Karen Morley, Tom Keene, Barbara Pepper, John Qualen and Addison Richards, is an unusually large one, boasting forty speaking parts and hundreds of minor players.

NO MORE LADIES

What is Glamour?

This question, as old as Hollywood, raised its interrogatory head again when the luminaries of the "No More Ladies" company at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer fell to debating its meaning. The new picture, produced by Irving Thalberg open to-day at the "Queen's Theatre."

Here are some of their answers:

Joan Crawford: "When you wake up and discover it's Sunday morning."

Robert Montgomery: "When an actress bites a dog."

Franchot Tone: "Something much talked about but seldom seen."

Edna May Oliver: "Breakfast in bed."

Charlie Ruggles: "A seven letter word in print—sometimes six."

Gail Patrick: "Joan Crawford."

Reginald Denny: "The way a distant place seems—until you get there."

Edward H. Griffiths: "What a director seachers for when his picture is previewed."

CALM YOURSELF

The question of what to do if suddenly unemployed is answered in "Calm Yourself," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture to be screened at the Queen's Theatre soon, with Robert Taylor and Madge Evans teamed in the leading roles. The swift comedy drama deals with a young man who, bounced out of his fiancee's father's advertising firm, starts an agency of his own—confidential services whose slogan is "calm yourself" and guarantees to handle any problem, no matter how delicate, for its clients. This leads to the amusing situations enacted by Betty Furness, Ralph Morgan, Nat Pendleton, Hardie Albright and others in the support of the popular team.

NEW RAILWAY LINE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily press" (Copyright).)

Nanking, Aug 25.

Concrete measures for the construction of the Kiangsi-Fukien Railway have been agreed upon among the government authorities. The projected line will be approximately 100 miles in length extending from the Shangjoa station of the Chekiang Kiangsi Railway southwards to Foochow, provincial capital of Fukien, via Yenping, northern Fukien.

A sum of $250,000 monthly from the railway surplus is to be appropriated by the Ministry of Railways to the Chekiang-Kiangsi Railway Administration as a Sinkiang Fund for the issuance of $30,000,000 bonds for the construction of the projected line.

A loan of $18,000,000 is to be obtained from a Shanghai financial group with the $30,000,000 bonds as security. Of this loan ten million dollars are to be employed in the construction of the stations and roadbeds and $8,000,000 for the purchase of steel rails and rolling-stock.

Surveying of the line is to be completed before the end of December so that construction work may be commenced early next year.—

FLOOD PREVENTION

Financial And Political Help Needed

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Shanghai, August 30.

Dr. J. Earl Baker of Flood Relief Administration surveyed the historical and present-day facts of the problem of flood relief at yesterday's lunch meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club, and said:

"The causes of floods in China are fairly well-known to all of you, but it may be well to review them. For the most part, they are geographical. The summer monsoon blowing from the Pacific Ocean reaches the highlands laden with moisture and there precipitation occurs in varying intensity. We all know that from the Yangtze river northwards, China receives its moisture largely in the summer months. An occasional light fall of snow in winter, a light, early shower in spring or an occasional late one in the fall constitute about the only variations from this rule. If these actually occur, the farmers north of the Yangtze reap both a spring and a fall crop and prosperity results. If the fall, winter and spring precipitation fails, little more than the fall crop results, under which conditions there is a normal marginal existence. If the summer monsoon fails, as it sometimes does, or is so streaked as to fall in some sections, then drought and famine are the consequence. If, as sometimes happens, the entire precipitation occurs within 10 days or two weeks the rivers then burst their banks and a flood follows."

LACK OF FOREST

"As you all know there is a lack of forest cover to absorb rainfall and delay run-off. Hence the suddenness of the flow and ebb of freshets is such that it is very difficult to predict where silt will be deposited. The Yellow River is particularly an offender on this point. In our most discouraged moments, we are inclined to throw up our hands and say—'What's the use! Efforts at remedy are merely a waste of of time and money!' Yet in China, past generations have refused to take this hopeless attitude, as witness the marvellous control systems which have come down to us from historic centuries. The present moment finds China in one of its resurgent moods, refusing to give up without at least having the thrill of battle the elements."

"I have recently taken an aeroplane flight by courtesy of the National Economic Council over the flood regions in Shantung, along the Yangtze and over northwestern Hupeh. I have come back from the trip of observation very much encouraged over the prospects of rendering floods less frequent by means of improved dykes and improved dyke maintenance. No people on earth are more skilful in the use of good earth and the tools by which it is handled than are the Chinese. On work of this kind, no finer body of labourers could be found in any section of the globe. If these men are so led that they have confidence in their commanders, if the generation of engineers which has recently been trained in flood control can be adequately supported not only financially but in a political way, I feel sure that they can so raise, strengthen and maintain the dykes bordering China's rivers to an extent which will so far to insure the countryside of China against everything except the exceptional flood."—

IMPROVED COMMUNICATIONS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Peiping, Aug. 28.

Dr. Cheng Hsi-keng, special Commissioner for Foreign Affairs for Hopei, Chahar and Suiyuan, who has just returned from a trip to Taiyuan, spoke highly of the improved communications system in Shansi Province during the last few years.

Dr. Cheng said he was specially impressed by the net work of long distance telephone connecting all the districts in the province, no matter how remote they are. Shansi's highway system, according to Dr. Cheng, is also praiseworthy. In addition to the two main highways which have already been completed, the Shansi authorities are now building a number of branch lines to act as feeders to the main lines.—

PAIN AND ITS CAUSES

Result Of Recent Research

A discussion was opened at the International Neurological Congress on "The Cerebrospinal Fluid."

Later Sir Thomas Lewis submitted a communication on "Pain resulting from Products of Metabolism or of Tissue Damage." Because simple physical interferences, it was stated, were apparently capable of stimulating nerves directly, there had been a tendency to interpret most pains as a result of physical changes induced in nerve-endings directly by the pain-producing agency. It was becoming apparent that other modes of peripheral stimulation must be considered.

Evidence had been accumulating which suggested that malnutrition or injury of tissues supplied by sensory nerves might so change the local chemical or physicochemical environment of these sensory nerve-endings as to stimulate them. Thus it seemed to be established in the case of somatic muscle that products of its work might accumulate in the tissue spaces, bringing change of environment to local sensory nerve-endings adequate for the starting up of pain-giving impulses. In the case of injuries of the skin there was definite evidence that substances released from the skin acted in a similar way. The idea that sensory nerve-endings might be stimulated through natural chemical or physiochemical tissue changes had been taken beyond the stage of theory by the demonstration that the pains might be maintained by arrest of the blood flow to the part. The underlying process was thus shown to be stable and its nature was beginning to come within our understanding.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Professor Peet, of Michigan, described some 60 operations undertaken for the relief of high blood-pressure. The surgical procedure, he said, consisted in resection of the greater and lesser splanclinic nerves and of the lower dorsal sympathetic chain. The operation was done on both sides usually at one time. No patients were operated upon whose blood pressure was not, at some time, over 200. Severe damage to the kidneys was not always a contra-indication to operation. The results showed 85 per cent. improvement, varying from relief of headache to apparent complete cure. Ten per cent. were not benefited; about 15 per cent. seemed to be cured. In these cured cases "choking of the optic disks, retinal haemorrhages, cotton-wool patches, etc., have disappeared. There has been a complete return to normal vision and to normal kidney function."

Dr. Blake Pritchard discussed "The Neuromuscular Disturbance in Myasthenia Gravis," and dealt with the remarkable results obtained in this severe disease by drugs of the eserine group. These drugs brought about complete if transitory improvement in the patients' movements and this fact made it possible to explain the disease in terms of delayed or imperfect restoration of those conditions at the myoneural junction which were essential to the transfer of excitation from motor nerve to muscle end-plate. This condition might be concerned with the provision of some precursor or some linkage of acetylcholine.

Mr. Norman Dott and Dr. Ernest Levin, of Edinburgh, in a paper on "Subacute and Chronic Inflammatory Hydrocephalus," described a group of cases in which increased intracranial pressure was the essential factor, and of which the essential pathology was obstruction to and resulting accumulation of cerebrospinal fluid.

HEALTH WORK

A Shanghai Appeal

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Shanghai, Aug. 28.

An appeal for the unification of Shanghai's public health work was made yesterday by Dr. F. C. Yen, superintendent of the First Hospital of the Red Cross Society of China, when in a press interview he urged that the present haphazard system providing for three separate health administrations be altered to make co-operation and co-ordination possible.

"One municipal division cannot be run along modern lines when another is backward," Dr. Yen stated. "You cannot segregate disease. Consider Avenue Edward VII. Is a disease germ going to be afraid to cross the street just because it knows that on the other side lies an area governed by a different administration?"

"Our work in cholera has in one way broken the ice. Look at the results. Three years ago the three administrations began to work together in regard to this disease. In the last two years we have had no cholera. I do not say that this is entirely due to the fact that we have worked together, but the improvement shown has a great deal to do with this."

"To illustrate my point I shall discuss the question of lepers in Shanghai. No matter who you are, you are endangered by their presence here, and like germs they respect no municipal boundaries. In Shanghai there has for years been a dispensary to treat the disease, but heretofore, there has been no effort to hospitalize lepers."

INTERNATIONAL BODY

"The China Mission to Lepers is an international organization, has a committee of all nationalities, and has existed here for some time. Its funds are raised in the United States and China, especially in the United States. In the past it has carried on educational work, given treatment and conducted its affairs through a central office."

"The idea to have a leprosarium has recently gained favour here and $80,000 and 100 mow of land were obtained for its erection. At Dah Zah, about eight miles from Shanghai, we have provided a farm with cottages, workshops, and a chapel. All is completed and the institution will open on or about September 15th. Now my point is that this leprosarium is to serve all Shanghai, including Greater Shanghai, the French Concession and International Settlement. This co-operation can be carried to venereal disease clinics, and to tuberculosis clinics and hospitals as well. We must make an issue of this. Disease does not respect our boundaries, and when it comes to a matter of health we should not let artificial lines stand in the way of efficiency."—

MORE ASSEMBLY HALLS

Built At Nanchang

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily press" (Copyright).)

Nanchang, Aug 25.

A great public need will be answered here by the construction of 30 assembly halls, scattered all over the city. These new halls will be sufficient to meet the requirements of all public services such as holding mass meetings and entertainment. These buildings cost the government the round sum of $1,500,000. In addition, there have been built 10 reception houses at a cost of $5,500, one being located in each section into which the city is divided. These houses can be used as public dining rooms for feasts, tea parties, or any other public entertainments.

BATH HOUSES

Another feature in the reconstruction of the city here is the erection of five public bath-houses at a cost of $4,800. Unlike those public bath-houses which abound in the city, the new bath-houses have all the benefits of a combination of modern conveniences and systems. The charge is very moderate. This is also part of the scheme in the city's health movement in accordance with the New Life principles.

Five new primary schools also are built at the cost of $50,000, and at the same time, due consideration has been given to the applications of 59 primary schools for new additional buildings which, according to the plans, will amount to another sum of $790,000. Some of the required buildings are under construction and will be completed before the autumn term commences.—

FORGED NOTE CHANGE

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, an adjournment was granted by Mr. W. M. Thomson until this morning, in the case in which Li Yui is charged with uttering a forged currency note. Evidence was produced yesterday which stated defendant on August 23 went into the Hop Cheung firewood shop in Sai Yeung Choi Street, Yaumati where in payment for some firewood he tended a forged note purporting to be a $10.00 note of the Chartered Bank. Detective Sergt E. Franklin prosecuted.

BANK CLERK'S STORY

The first witness called was J. M. Pinna, of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China who stated that two of the three banknotes in court were forgeries, the other being genuine. The paper of the forged notes was thicker than the genuine and had an oily touch. The picture on the back of the note was blurred and the printing bad. The colour was also different to the genuine. The front and back of the notes were printed on two separate pieces of paper, whereas the genuine was done on only one piece of paper.

Yeung Mun, the complainant stated that on August 23 defendant went to his shop and ordered $1 worth to be delivered to No. 614 Nathan Road, first floor. Before going away defendant handed a $10 note to witness, who gave him $9 change. Shortly after, witness sent his daughter and nephew to take the firewood to the address given, but they found that there was no such address. They returned and informed him of their inability to find the place.

BECAME SUSPICIOUS

On hearing this, witness became suspicious and took the $10 to several money changers and discovered that it was a forgery. The following day witness was informed by his elder brother that defendant had been arrested. He therefore went to the Yaumati Police Station where he saw defendant. Witness handed the banknote to the police.

Yeung Kiu, stated that he together with a cousin of his delivered some wood to an address in Nathan Road, but on arrival there found that there was no such addess. They consequently returned to the shop, and his uncle became suspicious of the validity of the note. He took it to several money changers, who verified that it was a forgery.

BRIEF STRUGGLE

The next day while witness was standing outside Cheung Woo firewood shop he saw defendant enter the shop next door. Defendant failed to recognise him, and he (witness) heard defendant ask for some firewood. He eventually tendered a note in payment, but the master of the shop replied that he did not have any change.

Defendant then left the shop and crossed Kan Su Street. Witness followed him, and caught him when they were opposite a timber yard. They had a brief struggle for a district watchman soon appeared on the scene and arrested defendant. On the way to the Yaumati Police Station, a man named Ho King approached witness and informed him that defendant had dropped a $10.00 note on the ground prior to their struggle together. This note witness gave to the district watchman.

At this stage the case was adjourned.

Chan Ho, unemployed, appeared on remand before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of returning from banishment and was sentenced to nine months' hard labour.

* * *

Chan Wo, unemployed, was charged by Detective Sergeant Fitches before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, with having committed an indecent assault on Wong Yuk-kiu, married woman, on the second floor of No. 57 Shing Wo Road on Wednesday. An application made by Sergeant Fitches for a week's formal remand was granted, bail being allowed in $500.

* * *

Lau Fuk, unemployed, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, charged with four counts of obtaining fruit and vegetables by means of false pretences from four hawkers, Tong Yao, So Cheung, Tsoi Chai and Wong Wai, in the Wanchai district. The defendant denied the charges, and hearing of the case was fixed for September 12 at 11.30 a.m.

SEQUEL TO BURGLARY

When Ng Yuk, 26, married woman, Lam Po-ki, 37, unemployed, and Tso Ngo, 34, married woman, were charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday with having received part of the property stolen at a burglary which was committed at 47, Tai Street, Kowloon City, during the early hours of August 21, the first defendant was sentenced to one month's hard labour while the third was given a term of three months. The man was discharged.

In the course of the evidence given by Chong Tik-kwong, the complainant, it was alleged that the burglary at No. 47 Tai Street was committed during the early hours of August 21. Two leather trunks and a suitcase were ransacked and the contents stolen.

Enquiries were made and on the night of August 28 second accused went to the Mongkok Police Station and made a report that his wife (third accused) and his son had gone to Mongkok that morning and had not returned. The woman had with her a parcel. The man was reluctant to say what was in the parcel but finally stated that it contained jewellery. The value of this jewellery was about $400 or more.

EAR-RINGS FOUND

On information received the police visited No. 562 Shanghai Street where first defendant was arrested. The police found in defendant's cubicle a tin jewellery box containing two ear-rings, and a cigarette case. In the presence of the police the woman took off a ring and said, "This is also" The woman also handed to the police a pair of trousers which she had been wearing, and picked out other clothing from a suitcase. The value of this amounted to about $33.

Inspector Chester-Woods stated that it was when the man was reluctant to say anything about the contents of the parcel in his wife's possession that he was arrested.

JEWELLERY PRODUCED

The police arrested third defendant at No. 18 Sung Yee Street, and on the way to the police station she produced a handkerchief containing a quantity of jewellery, which was identified by complainant.

It will be recalled that Sung Hop-san, unemployed, who was charged with having taken part in the burglary, escaped from custody at the Kowloon Magistracy cells last Tuesday and has not yet been arrested. He is the husband of the first defendant charged with receiving.

An order was made for the redemption of the goods recovered from pawnshops on payment.

"IN A QUANDARY"

Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, the First Kowloon Magistrate adjourned a case yesterday afternoon to take advise on a point as to whether the complainant was an accomplice in handing $5.00 to defendant who appeared at the Kowloon Magistracy on three charges, one of which stated that on various dates between April 15 and June 20, defendant, being a member of a crew, (of a Government vessel) "was guilty, in that you took a gratuity of $5.00 without the permission of the Inspector General of Police."

This question arose, when the Magistrate said that he was in a quandary regarding complainant's position owing to the ruling given in the Supreme Court yesterday morning in an appeal against the sentence given in the case in which an interpreter was charged with accepting bribery.

NEW RULING

According to the new ruling, complainant would be an accomplice, unless the prosecution could produce material collaboration, which would of course, not have to be exact in every detail.

The prosecuting officer (Sub-Inspector L. Whant) said that he had no other evidence except that complainant took the money from his mother, which he in turn handed over to defendant.

The case was adjourned until this afternoon, the Magistrate stating that he woud like to see the exact wording of the Chief Justice's finding before continuing with the case.

OTHER CHARGES

The other charges in which defendant Pang Yik appeared, related to (1) that he on June 20 at 150, Nam Cheung Street, the house of the complainant Lee Yuk with intent to fraud did obtain from the complainant $5.00 by false pretences i.e. by promising to obtain a job in the Harbour Master's department; (2) that he on or about June 20 at the Harbour Office did utter a certain forged document purporting to be a certificate of employment by the Superintendent of the 'Water Dock' knowing it to be forged, and with intent to fraud.

Mr. Max A. Silva appeared for the defence and entered a plea of "not guilty" on all charges.

FALSE STAMP

Sub-Inspector Whant in the course of his outline, said that evidence would be produced in which an official stamp purporting to be that of the superintendent of the Harbour Office, was in actual fact the impression of the metal top of a bottle of "Tiger Balm" which was utilised by defendant for the stamp.

NEW MEMBER

The minutes of the previous meeting being confirmed, the Hon. Mr. E. H. Williams was sworn in as a new member.

The Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith moved that the report of the Finance Committee dated August 22, 1935, be adopted. This was carried on being seconded by the Hon. Mr. E. Taylor.

The Colonial Treasurer, the Hon. Mr. E. Taylor in moving the following resolutions:—

(a) That this Council approves the further sum of $2,771,371 on account of loan works being met from surplus balances during the financial year 1935 pending the issue of a further loan.

(b) That this Council approves the expenditure of $78,000 on the Vehicular Ferry during 1935, said:

LOAN WORKS

The Resolutions standing in my name are in connection with approved loan works.

Expenditure on loan works in 1935 was originally estimated at $4,727,679.69 and of this amount the sum of $2,152,984 (excluding Crown Agents charges for June and July) had been expended by the end of July.

Ordinance 11 of 1934 authorises the Governor to borrow up to a sum not exceeding 25 million dollars dollars. $13,860,000 has already been borrowed—and an additional $2,217,067.30 has already been advanced, with the consent of Council, from surplus balances, $217,067.30 having been approved for 1934 and $2,000,000 for the first half of 1935.

The revised estimate for loan works during 1935 is $4771,371, and as our cash resources at present will permit the payment of this sum from surplus balances, with the economies attendant on such payment, I ask that in addition to the sum of $2,000,000 already approved a further sum of $2,771,371 may be advanced this year.

I now move—

That this Council approves the further sum of $2,771,371 on account of loan works being met from surplus balances during the financial year 1935, pending the issue of a further loan.

The second resolution deals with the Vehicular Ferry. Honourable Members will remember that when the Schedule to the Hong Kong Dollar Loan Ordinance was amended by Resolution of Council on May 16, 1935, the total allocation of Item No. 3, Vehicular Ferry, was increased from $1,900,000 to $1,930,000. In the schedule of loan works annexed to the Estimates for 1935 only $25,000 is allotted to the Vehicular Ferry as it was estimated that $1,875,000 would be required by the end of 1934 whereas only $1,850,418 was spent. It is now desired to increase the allotment for 1935 from $25,000 to $78,000 as it is considered necessary after the recent inspection by Mr. A. T. Coode to construct two new caissons, one at the end of the East arm of Jubilee Street pier and the other at the end of the West arm of the Jordan Road pier, and certain other works costing in all $65,000. It is possible that the full $78,000 will not be required this year, and in that case it will again be necessary for me to ask for further approval in 1936 for the unspent balance.

I now move—

That this Council approves the expenditure of $78,000 on the Vehicular Ferry during the year 1935.

Both the resolutions were approved by the Council on being seconded by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith.

READING OF BILLS

The Attorney General, the Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster then moved the First Reading of "A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the deportation of undesirable aliens." This was seconded by Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith and moved.

The Attorney General, Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster then moved the Second and Third Readings of the following Bills which were all passed on being seconded by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith.

"A Bill to consolidate, amend and simplify the law relating to larceny and kindred offences."

"A Bill to amend the law relating to the falsification of documents and to amend the Forgery Ordinance, 1922."

"A Bill to amend the law relating to false personation."

"A Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to dangerous drugs."

"A Bill to regulate certain official figures and to provide for the payment of fees thereof," and

"A Bill to amend the law relating to Estate Duty and to provide for the payment of any such duty, which may be due, before a successor is registered without probate or administeration."

This closed the business of the meeting and His Excellency Sir Thomas Southorn before dispersing said that the meeting was adjourned to next Thursday when the Budget will be presented.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Subsequent to the meeting of the Legislative Council, the Finance Committee met and approved of the following supplementary expenditure amounting to $34,571.

In connection with Miscellaneous Services a sum of $1.315 was asked, being for Imperial Economic, Imperial Shipping and Imperial Agriculture Bureau.

Public Works recurrent, Hong Kong, Miscellaneous Item, Bathing Places $1,500.

Harbour Department, training expenses of Assistant Government Marine Surveyors at Home $1,256.

Public Works Extraordinary, New Kowloon. Miscellaneous are Kowloon Tsai Development $24,000.

Public Works Extraordinary, Hong Kong. Communications. Widening of Plunketts Road $4,000.

Public Works Extraordinary, Kowloon. Waterworks for Back Lane Service Pipes.

In regard to the item for $1,256 Sir William Shenton queried what sort of training the money was asked for and he was given to understand by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith that it was for the special training of electrical welding which was something out of the usual.

The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall asked whether the $24,000 asked for the Kowloon Tsai development was for drainage, etc., and when the place would be ready for sale.

The Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson informed him that the lot would be ready by April next year. Only one section of the plot of ground was being fixed up and that part of the land is available for sale even now. The money asked for was for drainage on this special section and that by April next year the whole works would have been completed.

A RECORD YEAR

Magistrate's Report

The report of the Hong Kong and Kowloon Magistracies for the year 1934 has just been issued and makes interesting reading.

The number of cases dealt with by the Hong Kong Magistrates was 32,597 as compared with 26,162 in the previous year. Kowloon's cases numbered 21,220 for 1934 and 19,925 in 1933. A small temporary Court Room was erected in the Magistracy (Kowloon) compound and opened on September 6, 1934, for the hearing of cases by the First Clerk and Magistrate. This has done much to relieve the former congestion of cases in the Main Court.

A RECORD

The number of charges and defendants dealt with in Hong Kong and Kowloon in 1934 constitutes a record in the history of the Colony, and the total number of defendants was 56,370 as against 48,618 last year. The increase of cases is accounted for entirely by "offences against public morals and police," the principal increases being under the items of obstruction, hawking, traffic, and, in Hong Kong hawkers' offences. Opium and revenue cases have diminished markedly.

To cope with the work it was found necessary to increase the number of magistrates and during the year officers of the Cadet Service were appointed to the position of Magistrate and First Clerk in both Magistracies.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS

The Juvenile Offenders Ordinance (Ordinance No. 1 of 1932) was in operation throughout the year, and remand homes for both boys and girls were in use. 1,789 boys and 358 girls came before the courts, of whom 176 boys and 43 girls were discharged, leaving 1,613 boys and 315 girls as the total number convicted. Of these, 954 boys and 263 girls were convicted of hawking offences, which in the case of juveniles almost always means hawking without a licence. The corresponding figures for the previous year are 1,022 and 184.

THE ACCOUNTS

The statement of account shows that the expenditure for the Hong Kong Magistracy for 1934 totalled $78,215.85 as against $69,373.77. The corresponding figures for Kowloon were $38,745.83 and $32,404.86.

So far as revenue is concerned the Hong Kong figures for 1933 and 1934 were $161,238.68 and $161,579.67 respectively while those for Kowloon were $88,161.76 and $72,347.38.

ANXIOUS CROWDS

Withdraw Their Savings

The run which began on Wednesday on the Industrial and Commercial Bank continued unabated yesterday. Large crowds turned up at the Bank long before the opening hour and the management had great difficulty in keeping the depositors back. So great was the crowd that the assistance of the police was called in shortly after 10 o'clock when two Chinese plain-clothes men with the aid of the Indian watchman were required to control the crowd. Eventually those outside the Bank Building were moved away and inside the Bank hundreds of depositors crowded the counters to withdraw their money, that is one fifth of their deposits in accordance with the notifications posted on Wednesday.

THE BANK OF CANTON

Similar scenes were witnessed outside the Bank of Canton.

Many of those who had rented safe deposit boxes were anxious to withdraw same and as there are hundreds of these boxes in the Bank it is presumed that the majority of them turned up yesterday.

A squad of the Emergency men under a European Sergeant was on duty outside the Bank's premises and large crowds were to be seen peeping into the Bank from the side lane.

Most of those who turned up yesterday were ladies and although at about 10.15 a.m. a notification that the vault will be available to box holders producing the four keys belonging to their boxes between the hours of 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 2 to 4 p.m., the vault was not opened up to a late hour in the afternoon.

The notification was issued by Mr. J. Hennessey Seth, Special Manager of the Bank of Canton.

PROPERTY SALE

Des Voeux Road Lot Disposed

At Messrs. Hughes and Hough Limited's auction rooms, No. 6, Des Voeux Road Central, yesterday afternoon, a valuable leasehold property, registered in the Land Office as Section E. and the remaining Portion of Inland Lot No. 1491 together with the Dwelling Houses and Shops, known as Nos. 178, 180 and 182, Des Voeux Road Central, was sold by order of the mortgagees by public auction.

The property is held for the unexpired residue of the term of 75 years, from the 7th March 1900, with a right of renewal for one further term of 75 years, created by an Indenture of Crown Lease dated 20th May 1901.

The area of the whole lot is about 1,815 square feet, and the annual Crown Rent is $10.54.

The upset price for the lot was $70,000.00, and after one advance bid of $1,000.00, by Mr. Ma Yuk Chan of No. 3, Wing Wo Street became the purchaser.

PRAYER-BOOK IN JAPAN

A Question Of National Idiom

In deference to national sentiment certain changes have been made in the translated version of the Book of Common Prayer used by the Japanese Anglican Church (Nippon Seikokwai).

The prayer-book which the Japanese Church uses is a close translation of the Book of Common Prayer. It was recently brought to the notice of the Home Office that the translation of certain passages in the State prayers was inconsistent with Japanese ideas of the unique position of the Imperial House. The Home office had approved of the translation and the Household Ministry had accepted a copy as a gift from the Church to the Emperor on his enthronement. No question regarding the translation had arisen before. At the polite request of the Home Office, a committee on Doctrine and Worship studied the matter and made alterations which a General Synod has approved.

The principal change is on the Japanese wording of the familiar and revered suffrage "O Lord, save the King." This had been translated "O God, save our Emperor." The word for save (Sukui), like its English equivalent, has come to mean, when used in the moral sense, upraising or uplifting, and it seemed, or sounded, derogatory, while Waga Tenno (our Emperor) also seemed to punctilious Japanese to be open to objection. "Save" (sukui) was accordingly replaced by "prosper" (sakiwai) and for "our Emperor," the words Kinjo Tenno Heika (his Majesty the present, or reigning, Emperor) were substituted. Instead of "O God, save our Emperor," Japanese Anglican Christians now pray "O God, prosper his Majesty the (reigning) Emperor."

THE WORDS

The words "King of Kings and Lord of Lords" also evoked criticism and the committee decided to alter them to "O God, Lord of Heaven and Earth." Theologically, the new words bear the same meaning as the old, but they sound less challenging in Japanese ears. This change aroused some protest in the Synod but was carried by a majority. Before submission to the Synod, the alterations were considered and amended by a Prayer-Book Committee, on which two Japanese and six foreign Bishops sat. The spirit of the committee which made the changes was not aggressively nationalistic and English observers saw nothing would suggest that "For Country and God" was a better cry than "For God and Country." Changes are to be expected as the Japanese Church grows in self-consciousness.

The revised translations will be used until the next General Synod three years hence. They will then be reviewed and if adopted, will be the only prayers authorized for the Emperor and Imperial Family.

It only remains to add that in Japan, if patriotic or loyal sentiments are touched, great events may from little causes spring. The originating cause of these proceedings was as follows: An ardent nationalist, happening to enter a Japanese Baptist church in the slums of Tokyo while a Christmas service was being held, heard the word "save" used in the prayers for the Emperor. He objected, and the preacher excused himself on the ground that he was quoting the Seikokwai prayer-book. The patriot accused the Seikokwai to the local police. They sent on the complaint to metropolitan headquarters which sent it to the Home Office, which requested the Church to change the wording as "Save" applied to his Majesty was fuonto, improper, or fukei, disrespectful.

COURT MARTIAL

Theft Of A Watch

The loss of a gold watch by Musician Eddy Harkness of the s.s. President Coolidge on August 9 led to the sitting of an Army Court Martial yesterday, when Pte. L. Ogden of the East Lancashire Regiment was charged with the possession of the gold watch.

The defendant denied the charge and said that it was given to him by another member of the ship's crew.

For the prosecution, which was in the hands of Lt. M. Manlove, it was stated that only one witness was available as the rest were members of the crew which had already left. The accused was probably mentally weak.

The Court comprised Major W. L. Eastwick, R.A., President; Capt. R. L. de Brissay, Lincolnshire Regt.; Lt. J. P. Williams, East Lancs. The defending officer was Captain A. E. Wheatley, East Lancs.

Giving evidence Sub Inspector L. R. Whant said that when he received a report from Harkness on August 9 he accompanied the complainant across to Queen's Theatre where they found the accused sitting inside the theatre with some of the ship's crew. On being questioned by Harkness about the watch, accused denied all knowledge and readily submitted to a search. The watch was found in accused's tunic pocket which was at once recognised by Harkness.

THE STORY

Accused gave evidence that he was with a friend named Loftus, a member of the crew of the Coolidge, on the liner. He was introduced to Huntley and had a drink with him in the cabin he shared with Harkness. Later, Harkness came in and apparently lay down to sleep. Accused asked to be told the time and Huntley picked a watch from the table, shook it, and handed it to witness with the remark: "If you can get it going you can have it for old times sake."

Witness took the watch, thinking it was a gift from Huntley. They decided later to go out and told Harkness they were going either to the King's or Queen's Theatre.

Whilst sitting in the theatre, Harkness came up and asked him if he was the soldier who was in his cabin, and asked him to come outside. Witness and Whant sat on a settee and Harkness said he had had an article taken. Witness said: "What article?" The officer then said: "Mr. Harkness has told me all about it. Will you be searched?" Witness asked: "Who are you?," adding "I am quite willing to be searched." The police officer replied: "I will tell you later." Witness was searched in the theatre toilet and was surprised to find that the stolen article was the watch. He was arrested and taken to the police station.

The reference to "old time's sake" was probably because witness had been on the ship so often and had friends in the crew. He did not send for Huntley because he was taken by surprise and kept his mouth shut. He also thought his story would not be believed.

HEARING ADJOURNED

In reply to the President, it was stated that accused's case was not investigated for three days. A suggestion was made that the case be left over until the return of the Coolidge, but the authorities ordered it to go forward on the evidence available.

The President remarked that this seemed hardly fair to accused. A cable sent to Huntley might have prevented the court martial.

The case was adjourned till this morning.

Pleading guilty to a charge of housebreaking Ho Tung, 27, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. It was alleged that defendant broke into No. 418 Portland Street, third floor, and stole an alarm clock, a dress suit and a dress shirt, belonging to Mr. Edward Didero.

"REFRESHER" SCHOOL FOR DOCTORS

The progress of medicine in Britain, great as it is, has hitherto been hampered by a serious gap in the organisation. As is an acknowledged fact, research is indefatigable in making new discoveries and perfecting new methods but there is bound to be some delay before its results are being universally applied in daily practice. As far as the present pressure of work permits, a large number of general practitioners, no doubt, do their best to keep themselves fully up-to-date by the study of books and medical journals though they will probably be the first to admit that it is extremely difficult to equip themselves with the latest knowledge in this manner. True, an ounce of practice is worth a bushel of book learning, but in the past no adequate facilities for practical instruction have been available to the ordinary doctor. It is therefore pleasant to note that this defect will henceforth be remedied by the new Postgraduate Medical School at Hammersmith which was recently opened by the King. One of the principle features of this school is to provide "refresher" courses for the general practitioner. The courses provided in this school will be of a fortnight's duration and for each one of these courses there will be accommodation for 150 "students." As an inducement for more people to attend, the school will undertake to defray the cost of a locum tenens. Highly-qualified full time instructors will be included in the staff and eminent authorities, both British and foreign, will be invited to give special courses in their particular branches from time to time. And as the school is attached to a hospital which has been organised and equipped on the most modern lines, the students will be able to receive their instruction under the most favourable circumstances possible.

Financed and inaugurated under Government auspices, the school will greatly enhance the importance of London as a centre of learning, and it is as likely to attract as many postgraduate students from abroad as it will from Britain. At the laying of the foundation stone ceremony, Mr. Chamberlain said that the time will surely come when no general practitioner will care to allow many years to pass over his head without refreshing and rejuvenating his mind at this school. It is quite within the bounds of possibility that the medical profession itself will insist on a minimum periodical attendance as the condition of remaining a fully qualified practitioner.

ATTACK ON A JAPANESE

Daring Robbery Attempt

With $1,800 in notes in his possession and while he was on his way to have same deposited at the Yokohama Specie Bank on behalf of his employers, Ha Kao Yoneo, a 19-year-old Japanese lad was suddenly set upon by three men who attacked him with some sort of implement.

The Japanese was waiting for the lift on the second floor landing of No. 16 Queen's Road Central at about 2.50 p.m. yesterday when he noticed three Chinese males standing a few yards away from him and acting in a suspicious manner.

A few seconds later they approached him and one of the Chinese peeped into his upper left hand coat pocket in which the money was deposited. Before he was aware of his intention he was suddenly struck on the head by some sort of instrument and the three men then attacked him while one of his assailants made a grab at the pocket. He was caught unawares for a few moments and when he regained his equilibrium he made a dash to the third floor landing, hotly pursued by his assailants.

When Yoneo reached the landing his assailants turned back and disappeared. On examination of the second floor landing a half brick wrapped in a piece of newspaper was found. The assailants made good their escape and a description of the wanted men was furnished by the Japanese but up to a late hour last night no arrests had been made.

No money was stolen and the only injuries which Yoneo suffered were a few superficial wounds.

SIXTH PLENARY SESSION

Resolutions To Be Submitted

Canton, Sept. 5.

"Members of the Kuomintang Central Executive and Supervisory Committees here will submit important resolutions concerning foreign affairs to the Sixth Plenary Session on September 20," a spokesman of the Kuomintang South-west Executive Committee told foreign correspondents to-day.

"The resolutions are under consideration by C. E. C. members in Canton," he added. "I cannot divulge the nature of the resolutions owing to their importance, but they are largely based on the circular telegrams of last September."

The official further stated that contrary to reports in Shanghai and Hong Kong papers none of the Kuomintang leaders are ready yet to go to Nanking. He hinted that a definite decision will be made at the next Monday meeting of the Kuomintang South-west Executive Committee.

The circular telegrams of the South-west Executive Committee call for abolition of the Blue Shirts Party, cancellation of a dictatorial regime, resistance to Japanese aggression, and freedom of the press.

Another report stated, however, that General Huang Hsu Chu, Chairman of the Kwangsi Provincial Government, and Mr. Li Jen Jen will be able to attend the session.—

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

(BY NO QUARTER)

There's something about Autumn, isn't there, which makes one catch one's breath at the sheer beauty of things. When I looked at myself in the mirror this morning, I definitely caught my breath, though that might have been that seventh Creme-de-Menthe last night. The austere glory of the falling leaf, the smell of newts at twilight, and the rosy gleam of Mrs. Ruglinson's nose,— these are things to turn the heart over, and lend a colour to our sordid existence. What did old Daddy Keats, the silver toned trumpeter, say?

"Season of still unravished quietness," and many other things besides. And I think there's something in Shakespeare about it too. I'm a bit rusty about literature, though of course I know what I like.

Seriously, though, I do think we rather let beauty pass us by unmoved these days. In your very innerest heart of hearts don't you too believe in Fairies?

Pass me that basin quick, Rear-Admiral, or you'll get a marline-spike in the seat of your pants. I say, chaps, I'm frightfully sorry about all this; I know its awful nonsense, and all that, but there isn't very much to write about, so do please let me off this once. Now lets get on to current affairs, as the electrician said when he called to mend the fuse.

SPEED!

The news that Sir Malcolm Campbell has shattered the land speed record, and attained a speed of over 300 miles per hour has filled us all with excitement, but the effect upon Dr. Axel Aufgang has been stupendous. The Doctor has determined to break this record by at least 100 miles an hour, and is constructing a car specially for the purpose.

The engine is a seven cylinder Giant Wurlitzer which is driven by steam. The cam shaft is connected direct to the windscreen wiper, and the torque is taken up by a small countershaft on the bevelled edge of the splined gudgeon of the differential, thus giving considerably more flexibility and "hot-up." The Bender is sachetted, and has a blind opinion in the forward slot, thus avoiding side-rocketing, and "slice."

The Doctor, whose revolutionary opinions are too well known for me to restate them, originally insisted upon making the car without wheels, but he eventually realized that such a course was not practically feasible. He compromised by fitting the machine with long oval wheels, which, he says, will greatly reduce the wear on the tyres. "The Up and Down movement will be very refreshing to the driver," said the Professor.

He is being assisted in his project by a Scots Engineer called Rabinadrath Macpherson, who is extremely gloomy about the whole performance. "Whisht," he remarked; "The wee man is daft, and whin the caugh is in the wierd, there is yon puir caulpie to dree his caber"

I am inclined to agree with Mr. Macpherson.

SOCIAL JOTTINGS

It is interesting to learn that unemployed Hong Kong Matrons are forming a Guild called the Thoughtful Spiders, which is to be devoted to the promotion of Culture and Fellowship.

The proverb:—"Satan finds work for idle tongues" is perhaps nowhere so well illustrated as among our Colony Matrons, and this new venture will have an assured success.

The Culture Section is starting with a reading of "Jessica's First Prayer," followed by "You curbed my apple," by Nicolai Fizzleoy. He was one of the Shropshire Fizzleoffs.

The Bizibees are going to start by making woollen comforters for the heathen LLhamas in Thibet.

The half-seas over section starts with the motto: "Bottle your Neighbour"; Mrs. Ruglinson is the prime mover.

There is also a Poker Section, with the motto:—"One in the Sleeve is worth two in the Pack."

I am sure you will join with me in wishing this new venture every success.

GENEVA NEGOTIATIONS OUTCOME

Hopeful Views Held By French Press

ABYSSINIA TO STAND FIRM

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, September 5, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, September 5.

The Press here are relatively satisfied with the results of the first day of the Geneva negotiations. A settlement may not have been reached says "Le Journal" but the clashes which have been feared and which might have led to grave rupture failed to take place.

The papers express mild appreciation that Mr. Eden did not speak of sanctions but merely reported on the Three-Power Conference in general terms, thus leaving open all possibilities. The statement made by Baron Aloisi likewise was regarded hopeful by "Le Jour" which points out that the Italian delegate, although rejecting direct talks with Abyssinia, did not refuse to co-operate with the League Council.

If the League of Nations will offer Italy sufficient satisfaction, and if she succeeds in obtaining the Negus' consent, then Italy would be willing to abstain from military operations, asserts the paper, adding that the reply to the question of whether there will be war or not solely depends on the attitude of the League of Nations and particularly of "those powers to whose voice Addis Ababa is prepared to listen."

It is reported from Addis Ababa that instructions were sent to the Abyssinian delegate at Geneva advising him to strictly maintain the previous Abyssinian viewpoint and not to accept a compromise solution. Official quarters here are now inclined to regard the situation with considerable optimism.

The Emperor of Abyssinia on Wednesday night sent a telegram to the Pope thanking the Holy Father for the latter's peace manifestation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NERVOUSNESS IN ALEXANDRIA

Alexandria, Sept. 5.

Although the presence of British warships gives a sense of security, the nervousness of the inhabitants in Alexandria is reflected in a flood of applications for insurance policies. Companies in Alexandria, Port Said and Suez at present are overwhelmed with requests from warehouse owners and citizens wishing to insure against bombardment risks for which premium is quoted at two shillings per cent. per day.

British warships keep up steam all day and warships' pinnaces are mounted with machine guns which are described as "routine fittings." Reuter

This will entail the appointment of a sub-committee of conciliation consisting of five members.

Mr. Eden this morning had a lengthy conference with M. Laval after which he saw the Danzig representative.

Conversations on a broader basis continued during the lunch given by Mr. Eden to M. Laval, M. Avenol, the delegates of Poland, Turkey, Argentine, Australia and other influential personages.—Reuter

ADDIS ABABA ACTIVITY

Addis Ababa, Sept. 5.

War materials in the arsenal near Addis Ababa are being transferred to various points west of the capital as precautionary measures against air attacks according to a high Ethiopian army officer who states that the Italians will be unable to destroy anything of military value. The only victims of aerial attack will be the civilian population in the palaces, churches and buildings.

During the past month army stores and munitions left Addis Ababa nightly by mules, horses and lorries. As a very strict curfew exists from 7.30 p.m., the movement is carried out secretly.

BLACK AIRMAN

Colonel Julian, famous black airman of Harlem, has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Ambo garrison which will be used as advance headquarters for concentration of western Ethiopian forces.

It is stated that Colonel Julian left the air force because the Abyssinian planes were not modern and useless for war purposes. Reuter.

ALOISI SEES PRESSEN

Geneva, Sept. 4.

Contrary to the customary procedure of the Italian delegation, Count Aloisi received international pressmen yesterday evening, offering to answer their questions.

Among the replies given the Baron emphasised that Italy's determination to retain a free hand in Africa was unalterable. Asked whether Italy planned to leave the League of Nations, Baron Aloisi said the League of Nations must make its choice between Italy and Abyssinia.

Questioned whether Italy would be hindered in military action by the signature in the Kellogg Pact, the Count answered that like Great Britain, Italy had made a reservation when signing that this would not apply to her colonial territory.—Transocean Kuo Min.

SESSION ADJOURNED

Geneva, Sept 4.

Several short speeches, followed a long discourse by Count Aloisi after which the President adjourned the session without intimating when the next meeting would take place, but announced that the Abyssinian representative had reserved the right to deal in detail with the points raised in the Italian speech and the Italian memorandum.

It is therefore assumed that for the time being the Council will deal with other questions now before the Assembly, and will only return to the Abyssinian conflict after the great powers have conducted exhaustive direct negotiations with one another on the matter.—Transocean Kuo Min.

London on New York cross-rate at 2 p.m. to-day was 4.9450 compared with 4.9512 at closing yesterday.

MR. EDEN SPEAKS

Speaking in solemn tones, Mr. Eden declared that Great Britain would exert herself to reach a peaceful settlement. They had all tried to create a new international order to save mankind from the scourge of war, he said. The machinery of the new order which had been established by the Covenant was in Geneva, and if the spirit was there they could not fail.

The British Government was acutely conscious of its responsibilities as a member of the League, Mr. Eden continued, for the world was watching them all. The League was facing a vital test which, if it did not pass successfully, would gravely impair its influence.

A collapse of the League and of the new international order in things would be a calamity, the British spokesman asserted.

NO QUESTION

There was no question of any political or economic conflict between Britain and Italy, Mr. Eden told the Council. Britain's substantial interests in Ethiopia had been explicitly recognised by Italy and the British Government does not apprehend that they will not continue to be respected. Britain was only concerned in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute as a member of the League and a signatory of the Briand-Kellogg pact.

It was their duty to use the League machinery. If they obtained the loyal co-operation of the two parties in the dispute they would not fail to achieve a peaceful settlement.

WORK LAUDED

M. Pierre Laval, Prime Minister of France, welcomed the work of conciliation which had been undertaken by the League. He was convinced, he said, that its aim might still be assured within the scope of the League Covenant. That was the task of the Council, which was assured of the full collaboration of France.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IN FLORIDA

Congressmen Blame The Government

Miami, Sept. 5.

With the wind sweeping in the direction of Georgia to the Atlantic and abating to land gale force, Florida is beginning to count the cost of the hurricane. The total death roll must exceed 500.

Aeroplane flying over the keys report shambles of devastation. Huge areas of roads and railways have been washed out everywhere. The damage to property on the West Coast totals millions of dollars. The entire fruit crop has been destroyed in many districts.

PASSENGERS RESCUED

Passengers from the steamer Dixie which ran aground are being disembarked. They are wet and exhausted and have not had any food since midday on Monday owing to destruction of the ship's galleys. Nevertheless the highest traditions of the sea were maintained aboard.

The work of rescuing the remaining 280 passengers from the vessel was suspended last night owing to bad weather and resumed in the morning. About 120 were left on board, but the rescue of the whole lot was completed later.

ALLEGED BUNGLING

Congressmen have telegraphed Mr. Harry Hopkins and President Roosevelt enquiring why the many war veterans were not removed from the camps when the hurricane warning was first given.

Local indignation is increasing against alleged Government bungling which was responsible for great loss of life.—Reuter

SURVIVORS' STORIES

Miami, Sept. 4.

Haggard survivors tell heartrending stories of the desolation and destruction throughout the Florida keys where the hurricane has swept with sudden and tremendous force leaving a dreadful wake of death.

Houses are flattened and there is no sign of life of man or beast. The birds have vanished. It is impossible yet to tell whether the inhabitants of the hundreds of scattered farms have escaped or whether they are buried in the ruins of their homes.

One survivor, Mr. Lowe, told Reuter how he escaped from Tavernier with a woman tied to his belt and a three months' old baby in his arms.

Lowe and six relatives of his were forced to leave their homes and seek shelter in some stronger building. Their houses simply fell to pieces, for they were close to water and the waves engulfed them. The building in which they had pinned their highest hopes they found was not sufficiently strong to hold against the continual buffets of the waves. They were forced to flee again.

FLUNG DOWN

Each man of the party tied a woman to him with a sheet wound about the waist of each. They fought their way against the sucking under-tow of receding waves in this way. Repeatedly they were flung down, clutched at trees when they were neck deep in water, until miraculously they were able to scramble upon a small building floating past.

There they rode out the storm, precariously, crouched in the small house which was pitched about by the waves for hours.

A survivor from the wrecked rescue train described how the waves tossed the coaches about like straws.

The death toll in the hurricane is variously estimated. Some say that 500 are lost and 200 badly hurt. Others put the death list at a much higher figure, but it is still too early to do more than estimate, as there are miles of devastated country from which no reports have yet been heard.

PASSENGERS SAFE

Passengers are being taken off the stranded steamer Dixie, which is pounding to pieces on the reefs on Florida's southernmost tip.

In spite of the terrific seas and the strong wind, four steamers are standing by and their boats are bringing the 235 passengers and 118 of the crew of the Dixie to safety. The lives of all aboard the wreck now appear to have been saved.—Reuter.

TERRORISTS IN INDIA

Ruthless War By Authorities

Quietly but ruthlessly war is being waged on the terrorists. Suspected houses are continually searched for arms, according to a Bengal police report on activities in 1934.

A most brilliant stroke of the year was the rounding up of the most dangerous "Bengal Volunteer Corps" which was responsible for many outrages.

New York, Sept. 5.

"Italian armies in Africa may lay the foundation of a new Roman Empire great enough to give the Italian people a chance to breathe. If Signor Mussolini succeeds, Italy will expand in Africa without exploding in Europe."

Thus writes Colonel House in the magazine "Liberty." Colonel House who was formerly the late Mr. Woodrow Wilson's adviser, declares that world peace depends on Britain, France, Russia and the United States, who now possess the world, but at the same time recognises the insistence of Italy, Germany and Japan to be given their proper share of colonies which they failed to receive at Versailles. Reuter.

LAWN BOWLS NOTES

The League And Open Games

BY "F. B."

The lawn bowls competitions in Hong Kong are in its last stages, and practically every competition has been decided.

In the League the C.C.C. "A" are almost assured of the Senior Championship, being four points ahead of Recreio, their nearest rivals, with one game in hand. They have still three more games to play and another win will definitely set them down as Champions.

In the Junior Division the Bowling Green has annexed the title already and much interest is centred on the runners-up position which is being fought out between Taikoo Docks, Recreio and K.C.C. Each of these Clubs have 22 points to their credit with 16 matches played.

Many of the Police supporters were disappointed last week in that the home team was unable to offer much opposition to the C. C.C. "A" who won by 12 shots. All three of the C.C.C.'s. rinks were triumphant and Omar's and Luz's rinks returned the higest wins of the day by 5 shots each.

The Police were playing as well as could be expected, in fact at one stage they were having the better of their neighbours who up to the tea-interval were playing a game that looked none too good for the C.C.C. However, the C.C.C. stalwarts asserted themselves and gradually forged ahead.

Bradbury's rink was given a close run by Shepherd's four and it was only at the closing stages that Bradbury was able to draw away from the Police.

THE SURPRISE

The greatest surprise of the week was provided by the Kowloon Docks when they lowered the colours of the Recreio by a single shot. Incidentally the proud unbeaten skip record of C. G. Silva went by the board, and to "Jock" McKelvie goes the honour of having been responsible. Strange as it may seem, Silva's rink failed miserably and went down by no less than 14 shots and despite the valiant efforts made by H. A. Alves and F.X.M. da Silva, the other two skips, the deficit was too much for the Portuguese.

The most interesting play of the three rinks was undoubtedly that between Alves and Cooper. Never at any time during the game was the difference more than a few shots. Alves was well supported by his men and Cooper's men, not to be outdone, gave their skip all the necessary help. Cullen in particularly was seen to good advantage at No. 3.

F.X.M. da Silva was never seriously challenged by Lindsay. "Jack" McKelvie was in one of his rare forms and what he did invariably turned out to be correct. In fairness to Silva, it must be said that he has never recovered from his fall which he sustained on the day of the Final of the Open Rink Championship.

INDIANS BEATEN

It is an interesting point that the Indians have never yet won an away match. Credited with six victories which were all played on the home green they have yet to obtain two points playing away. Against the C. C. C "B" last Saturday they went down by 26 shots. They were never in the running and the only rink of note was Dallah's which went down to Arculli's rink by a single shot.

Cavanagh had an easy time against Minu and was leading most of the time. He returned with 11 shots credit, while Rosselet had the highest win by trouncing A. O. Madar's four by 14 shots.

THIS WEEK'S PROSPECTS

The league leaders will be entertaining the Kowloon Docks who last week sprang a surprise on the Portuguese Club. Can they repeat their success against the C.C.C. "A"? This remains to be seen. Granted that they have a strong four in McKelvie's rink, I doubt whether he can stand up to any of the C.C.C. rinks. U. M. Omar, B. W. Bradbury and R. F. Luz are all playing as well as ever, and with the advantage of playing at home, the chances of the Dockers springing a surprise are very remote.

Recreio, with their defeat of last week still fresh in their minds, will do well to remember that the Civil Servants are a team capable of big things. Somehow the Portuguese boys strike me as being a trifle stale these days. The Civil Servants on the other hand improved a great deal as the season progressed. Their victory last week against the K.C.C. clearly demonstrated this. Too much for granted must not be taken in their match against the Recreio tomorrow, for though playing at home they may find—the Portugese boys in one of their "old moods" and then it may mean a defeat for the Civil Servants.

AT THE BOWLING GREEN

The Indians are once again playing away against the Bowling Green. They may find the green strange and on the other hand they may be able to gauge it which will mean an uphill fight for the home team. Unless the Indians are capable of producing the same kind of form as they do when playing at home, I do not think they have much prospects of returning to Hong Kong with the two points.

The best game of the day should be that between the Police and the C.C.C. "B". Both teams are playing bowls of an uncertain standard. The Police are known as a team of big surprises. They should meet with stiff opposition from the C.C.C. "B" to-morrow who are quite capable of extending the strongest team in the league.

THE JUNIORS

The Junior leaders are opposed to the Electricians and should win comfortably. Kowloon Dock, Recreio and K.C.C. should all be able to claim the points while the Police should find no difficulty in beating the lowly placed Yacht Club.

THE OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS

Now that the Open Championships have practically been decided, chief interest is centred on the International Shield Competition and the Interport. A meeting of the Association is being held on Tuesday to formulate plans for the Interport while on Sunday the semi-finals of the International Shield will be decided.

Last week India accounted for Scotland in no small way. A feature of the game was the surprising display given by A. M. Omar, a junior player from the C.C.C. who more than held his own against the field. The Malays, too, had no difficulty in trouncing the Filipinos.

This Sunday India will be opposed to Portugal and one of the best games to date should be witnessed. The Indians are relying on the same four to do service while Portugal will call on the rink that played in the final of the open rink championship.

Malaya will find stiff opposition in the English team. On paper the Englishmen are expected to win but the Malayans are great fighters and may spring a surprise.

The Open Rink and Pairs Championships have now been decided with the Bowling Green and C.C.C. each claiming one honour. The Open singles is still in the quarter final stage and looks as if two great semi-final games will have to be played.

The most favoured are B. W. Bradbury and R. Duncan while H. A. Alves is also quite a capable player. By next week the semi-finals will have been played and another Colony title will by then have changed hands.

LAWN BOWLS

Holland Defeated

A minor sensation was caused yesterday, when A. M. Holland was defeated in the quarter final encounter by R. Duncan on the Recreio Green, in the Open Singles Lawn Bowls Championship of the Colony. The final score in favour of Duncan was 23 shots to 19. The game terminating on the 25th head.

A goodly crowd of spectators were present, and were treated to a game of fluctuating fortunes. Holland lead until the 11th head where he had a margin of 5 shots. Then Duncan retaliated with a 3 and a 4 to go ahead for the first time on the 13th head.

A ding dong struggle then ensued and when the 23rd head was reached, both players were level.

At the next head, Duncan registered a shot, and by dint of some fine bowling had three of his woods lying on the last head. There was only one course open to Holland. He drove with splendid courage, but failed to dislodge any of his opponent's woods, the game thus terminating with Duncan a worthy winner of a dour struggle.

It must be said that neither of the players on exhibition yesterday, played with their customary brilliance. Duncan was the better player of the two, and his great recovery when matters were not looking too bright for him, paved the way for ultimate victory.

SEMI-FINALS DRAW

Following the game, the draw for the semi-finals took place in the club house of the Club de Recreio, and resulted as follows:—

G. N. Mitchell v. R. Duncan (K.C.C. Green).

B. W. Bradbury v. H. A. Alves (C.S.C.C. Green).

The latter pair are to play next Wednesday (September 11) when Mr. H. Nish, president of the Lawn Bowls Association will have charge of the game, and the other game was drawn to be contested on Thursday (September 12). Mr. C. J Tacchi, vice-president of the Lawn Bowls Association will umpire.

Opportunity was also taken to allocate the grounds for the semi-finals of the International Shield and resulted as follows:—

England v. Malaya (C.C.C. green)

India v. Portugal (K.B.G.C. green).

The games are scheduled to start at 3.15 p.m. prompt and are to be played next Sunday, September 8.

On Tuesday next the General Committee Meeting will take place, to be followed next Friday (Sept. 13) with a meeting of the subcommittee, when the green for the final of the Singles title will be arranged.

Discussion regarding the Atkinhead Shield will also be on the agenda.

NOTES ON LOCAL HOCKEY

More Teams To Compete In Mamak Tourney

One of the most satisfactory things to be noticed at the 4th annual general meeting of the Mamak Tournament, was the large attendence. Civilian representatives, as quite naturally must be expected, were in the majority, with the Army running a good second. Unfortunately owing to the absence of the Navy in Northern waters, the Senior Service was not represented at all.

Executives for the ensuing year were nominated, and from the large number present at the meeting, good support for the tournament is assured. Mr. L. Tyler, Hon. Secretary for last year was renominated unamiously, while Mr. N. A. E. Mackay will again fill the treasurership.

A new chairman has been found in the person of Captain Kimm. This was a very wise choice indeed, for Capt. Kimm is vastly interested in hockey. Mr. A. A. Dand, who filled this position with credit last year, was again mentioned for re-election, but when it was stated that he would not be able to act in this capacity because of pressure of business, his name was reluctantly withdrawn. Mr. Dand's position was rather delicate during the past season, as he was represented both on the tournament's committee as well as the H.K. Hockey Association, so that questions that were brought up needing adjustment in the tournament that were passed over for a final decision by the hockey association, quite naturally had him sitting at both meetings.

IMPORTANT POINT

Mr. Dand in a letter to the Secretary of the Mamak body, expressed his opinion that it would be far better if someone could be found to fill his shoes, preferably someone who was not a representative of the association as therefore no question of a biased opinion could then be raised. No such intimation has ever, of course, been levelled against the ex-chairman, but the wisdom of this important point need not be stressed.

One of the outstanding proposals was brought forward by Mr. Tyler, who said that it would be far better if any infringement of the rules that shall occur later, should be dealt with by the Hockey Association direct, rather than through the executive committee of the tournament. His argument was that most of the members of the Mamak body were biased witnesses, in that they invariably were present when the infringement occurred, which needed their ruling at the meeting called to rectify the offence. This was unavoidable, and he thought that in point of fact, this procedure was not correct. The association on the other hand were unbiased witnesses, and their findings could not be disputed. He cited to prove his point the controversy that arose last year when P. Singh of the Radio was brought up for judgment because of foul play during an important game. Because of their interest in the welfare of the tounrament, most of the executive members were present at the game in question and saw the offence committed. They later sat to deal with it, and decided to pass the matter over to the association after first agreed to suspend the offending player. The Association ruled in favour of their finding, but politely informed them that it was unfortunate that members of this body should have been "biassed" witnesses.

HEATED DISCUSSION

Heated discussion followed, when several views for and against the proposal were voiced. One member finally rose to say that he was totally in disagreement with the proposal, and added that if the Mamak committee felt that they were biased, they had full power to nominate other persons in the tournament to hear the case, and that it was not necessary to refer the matter at all to the association.

This met with popular acclaim and finally the proposal was defeated, it being decided to abide by Rule 40 of the Mamak handbook which covers infringements of any discription and which gives full powers for the executive committee to deal with all matters.

Mr. F. A Kemp, Hon. Secretary of the Hockey association who was present at the meeting in this capacity, said that he fully agreed that this was the wisest course to be adopted, but that if the committee at any time were in doubt about anything, they could easily refer that matter to the association who would only be too pleased to help to reach a decision.

NO REGISTRATION

The Kowloon Indian Hockey Club intimated that they desired to enter two teams as an "A" and "B" side. A correction of several rules had to be made before this was made possible, and now instead of a player being only allowed to play for "one club" the new rules read that a player may only play for "one team." The Captain of a team is also now obliged to hand to the umpires before the commencement of a game the name of the players on view, but a club is placed on its honour not to play an "A" player in the "B" eleven as registration of players was abolished last season.

MORE TEAMS

According to Mr. Tyler's review of the past season, 18 teams turned out throughout the tournament, and it now appears possible, assuming that all last season's teams decided to re-enter, with some of the teams fielding two sides, that the tournament will assume larger proportions.

A proposal to form two divisions was withdrawn, it being stated that the executive committee would deal with the matter at a later meeing.

The first general meeting is to be held on September 18.

MORE OFFICIALS

The Secretary is to be assisted during the coming season by virtue of a new proposal that was passed at the meeting, by assistants in the form of a Civilian, Army and Naval secretary. By this new steps the movements of the two services may be noted with greater ease than was experienced in the past, and this will facilitate the smoother running of the tournament. Another great point is that uncompleted fixtures, by Naval teams may now by played elsewhere than in Hong Kong, the results to be forwarded here by the secretary concerned.

NO SHIELD

It was decided after a discussion that the Mamak Shield would not be competed for. The Naval and Army sides are irrevocably bound to their respective associations which debarr participation for any trophies in any form whatsoever, and it was brought best to abide by this ruling.

THE FIXTURES

On September 18 it is hoped to draw up the fixture list of the coming season, and Secretaries of the clubs interested are asked to give their suport in this direction, by notifying their intention to enter as soon as possible.

SOUTH AFRICA FACE THEIR 2ND. DEFEAT

Stephenson's 3 Wickets For 3 Runs–Then Comes Nichols

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Aug. 21.

In the lovely August sunlight this evening the South Africans began a lightning gattack on the Essex batsmen. One of the attackers, Bell, bowled with a bandaged arm, risking aggravation of his recent injury that may be grave.

Had the circumstances been different Bell would not have risked bowling at all—it was his first time the whole day—but the South Africans were faced with the prospect of their second defeat in a week.

They are still faced with a defeat that may mean something to England at the Oval on Saturday. Their end of the day endeavour was rewarded with the downfall of one batsman for 24, so that Essex need 148 runs for victory with nine wickets standing. Essex followed up their first day's success with a lead of 52 on the first innings, and then, through the new ball, Stephenson and Nichols put the South Africans out for 223 in the second innings.

CUTMORE SOON OUT

Before Stephenson repeated the first part of yesterday's havoc, Essex rounded off the task they had set about on the previous evening—to go ahead on the first innings. They were 139 for four at the outset—that is, 111 behind—with Cutmore 62 and still undefeated.

Crisp attacked with fine spirit, and Cutmore had only contributed 10 and the total was increased by 24 when he was leg-before. Cutmore had batted just under three hours all told, and the defensive character of his stand is indicated in his five boundary hits. Wykes was caught by short-leg at 208 and Stephenson caught magnificently by Langton at short-square-leg.

It seemed that the Essex ambition would be thwarted, for they were 35 behind and only three tail-enders were left. But those tail-enders did not hesitate to show an active boldness before the South African bowling, and Peter Smith cracked Crisp for three 4's in one over. Powell was out at 246 and then Essex went ahead through an on-drive, or rather an on-push, off Langton.

When Peter Smith was caught at 256, everybody expected the Essex knock would be over by lunch. But the other Smith was still to be reckoned with: the lunch score was 266, still for nine wickets down, and during the first quarter-hour after the resumption R. Smith beat out boundaries from his bat in quick-fire fashion He hit Langton so lustily that he made 33 while his partner gathered three, and when Balaskas got him stumped off a "donkey drop" he had made nine 4's in his half-hour's stay for 43.

VICTIM FOR NICHOLS

Essex enhanced their first innings success when the South Africans batted again, for in 40 minutes four wickets were down and only 20 scored this time. Again Nichols gave Stephenson the cue and again the gallant lieutenant responded. In Nichols' second over Mitchell was caught behind the stumps—6—1—3, and at 15 Rowan's middle stump went flying to Stephenson in his third.

Siedle, a first innings stalwart, was Stephenson's next new-ball victim; three runs later, in Stephenson's next over, he was leg-before under the amended rule, and at 20 so was Wade, out for an inglorious "duck." Stephenson had taken those three quick wickets for three runs in five overs, and when he took his well-earned breather he had sent down 8 overs, 2 maidens, for 18 runs, 3 wickets.

Stephenson was limping before the spell ended, but that did not stop him until it became absolutely necessary for him to have his blistered feet attended to. He has said to me, simply, "I want like anything to be a good bowler." And in truth, he is a good, a wonderfully improved bowler already.

After he and Nichols handed the ball to the two Smiths the attack flagged, and Dalton, this time accompanied by Nourse, went on with the repetition of yesterday. All in favour of the South Africans now. The 50 went up comfortably after an hour, the Essex score was passed, and the 100 just as comfortably in another 35 minutes.

Immediately after Dalton had reached his own 50 for the second time in the match and just at the tea interval, Nourse was caught and bowled by O'Connor, who cleverly backed up his delivery and took the catch low down and one-handed. Nourse was four short of his 50 and the invaluable stand had put on 95 for the fifth wicket, the tea score being 115 for five.

SHEFFIELD'S CATCHES

Dalton was caught by Sheffield, first slip, at 141—the beginning of a fine young ex-stumper. Dalton had made 65 this time: his place in the Test is now doubly certain. He had batted 100 minutes, though he took 40 of them on his final 15.

Williams was helped for the next hour by Langton, and the total was advanced by an infinitely precious 71 before Langton was Sheffield's next victim. The South Africans were now 212, and the new ball had been taken by Nichols at the pavilion end, but only for one over by Stephenson. His spirit was willing, but, alas, his feet were sore!

Nichols was enough, though, R Smith took Langton's wicket, and Nichols followed with a swish and a swoop and the three remaining wickets fell in rip-rap time to his fierce in-swinger at 212, 216 and 223.

Nichols' figures with the new ball were as thrilling as Stephenson's earlier on. The eventful balls of his five overs produced 2, 1, 1, wicket, 4, wicket, 1, wicket.

And so the South Africans ended, their 223 runs having carried the match to twenty past six and they had batted 220 minutes. And enthralling, lovable game!

"SANATOGEN will soon put him right again"

Physicians know by experience, how quickly and surely Sanatogen will build up strength in debilitated patients.

Whatever the cause of the weakness, be it illness, overwork or worry, Sanatogen cannot fail to do good. The phosphorus it contains is pure strength to the weakened nerve-cells. The albumin is nature's own building material of bodily power. It is the intricate combination of these two elements that has won Sanatogen the written recommendations of over 25,000 physicians.

And the splendid part of it is that Sanatogen is not only a true tonic-food, but also very easily digestible, so that the weakest patient, and the weakest stomach, can digest it.

Sanatogen must do you good. It does not interfere with any medical treatment, and every g'assful brings you nearer to perfect health again. Shorten that tedious period of convalescence. Be strong and healthy again. You can if you start your course of Sanatogen today.

GENEVA NEGOTIATIONS OUTCOME

Baron Aloisi, the Italian delegate, followed M. Laval. He submitted a long document in which he gave a detailed history of Italo-Ethiopian relations for the past half century.

He declared that Italy had always shown patience and fairness, but that Ethiopia was exploiting its membership in the League to evade the Italo-Ethiopian Treaty of 1928.

BARON ALOISI

Baron Aloisi cited numerous examples of "Ethiopian aggression." He declared Italy no longer felt confidence in the Ethiopian Government nor were able to accept their declarations.

Italy would feel profoundly wounded if Ethiopia continued to belong to the League on a footing of equality with Italy.

The Italian Government reserved entire liberty of action in order to adopt all necessary measures for the security of Italian colonies.

The Council suspended its sitting after Baron Aloisi had spoken.—Reuter.

TO UPHOLD COVENANT

Geneva, Sept. 4.

To-day's speeches in the League Council were taken as indicative of that body's general determination to uphold the Covenant should Italy flout it.

On this point the Little Entente, Scandinavian countries, and Turkey are equally determined, regarding this issue as a test of the whole post-War settlement.

M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, and Baron Aloisi the Italian spokesman, both maintain a very cheerful exterior. The latter, interviewed to-night, said he did not propose to ask for Ethiopia's expulsion from the League: but if others liked to propose the expulsion of Ethiopia, that would be a logical conclusion.

If Ethiopia's company was preferred to Italy's then the decision of action did not lie with Italy, he added.

LIBERTY OF ACTION

In speaking of her liberty of action and her determination to retain it, Italy meant that she would not surrender the right to leave the League or to declare war when and where she saw fit, Baron Aloisi said.

League delegates feel that the most important feature of to-day's session is the fact that the Council has now full cognisance of the very wide privileges offered Italy at the Paris conference. It is believed that hitherto Italy has under-estimated both the value of this offer and the feeling which its rejection must arouse.—Reuter.

EVENING SESSION

Geneva, Sept. 4.

At the evening session of the League Council, Professor Jezo, spokesman for Ethiopia, contended that the Arbitration Commission exculpated Abyssinia's responsibility for the Ualual incident.

He affirmed that Ethiopia desired to reach an agreement with Italy and strongly repudiated Baron Aloisi's accusations. He promised a detailed refutation later.

Meanwhile, he drew attention to the formidable League precedent which Italy was attempting to create by proposing to condemn a nation which was acting within the scope of its sovereignty.

After Senor Olivan, the Spanish spokesman, had vigorously upheld the principles of the Covenant, the Council adjourned without fixing a time for resumption.—Reuter.

SOLDIERS PERISH

Rome, Sept. 4.

One hundred and thirty Italian soldiers died in East Africa between January 1 and July 31, according to an official communique.

These casualties included fourteen officers and 79 men between June 29 and July 31.
Reuter.

ITALY'S CASE

Rome, Sept. 4.

A memorandum issued here to-day indicates four special charges in the Italian case, prepared for submission to the League. There are:

(1) That Abyssinia had refused to delimit the frontier and illegally occupied Italian territory;

(2) Daily attacks had been made on Italian diplomatic representatives;

(3) Continued attacks had been made on Italian lives and property in Abyssinia;

(4) Similar attacks had been made on Italians in Italian Somaliland.

In support of the Italians good intentions, the memorandum says Italy has supplied Abyssinia with 4,000 rifles and a million rounds of ammunition. The first batch was sold for 1,900,000 lire, of which the Emperor still owes Italy 78,800 lire.—Reuter.

ETHIOPIA DENOUNCED

Geneva, Sept. 4.

In the course of his speech elaborating the Italian attitude that Ethiopia is unfit for membership of the League, Baron Aloisi declared that the Ethiopian Government had done nothing to deserve admission to the community of civilised nations, and had not carried out its undertakings under the Covenant. Italy now regretted her error in voting for Ethiopia's admission.

Italy's indictment against Ethiopia is contained in voluminous documents alleging misdemeanours and concluding by saying that it is contrary to right and justice that a League member should be bound to observe the rules of the Covenant in relation with a member which had put itself outside the pact by violating its obligations.—Reuter.

ALLEGED OPTION

State Department To Inquire

Washington, Sept. 4.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, to-day revealed that his Department was inquiring into the circumstances surrounding the alleged Ethiopian option recently sold to the New York broker, Mr Chertok. But it is not considered an important development and is not expected to play any role whatever in connection with the United States' attitude towards Italy and Ethiopia.—Reuter.

GOING TO ENGLAND

Washington, Sept. 4.

Mr. Chertok, the man who claims to hold an option on large Ethiopian concessions, is leaving for England shortly, he said in an interview to-day. He will not take steps to exercise his concession from Ethiopia until he hears from the State Department.—Reuter.

NO CANCELLATION

Addis Ababa, Sept. 4.

News of the cancellation of the oil concession by the American company represented by Mr. F. M. Rickett, was officially received from Washington to-day.

A member of the Government expressed the greatest dismay and stated he could not understand how a concessionaire could cancel a contract less than a week after it had been signed. It is understood that the contingency of cancellation was not provided for in the contract.

Late to-night the Government decided not to cancel the oil concession, apparently hoping that Mr. Rickett may find other capital to replace that of the Standard-Vacuum Company.—Reuter.

FINANCE POLICY IN GERMANY

Dangers Overcome

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, September 5, 4.30 p.m.)

Berlin, Sept. 5.

In the September issue of the "Europealesche Revue" the Reich's finance minister, Count Schwerin von Krosigk, contributes an article on "German Finance Policy" wherein he says that Germany stood twice at the brink of economic chaos and both times succeeded in overcoming the danger, converting despair and stagnation into hope and activity. The time of inflation was overcome by the creation of new currency and the most rigid economy.

Afain at the time of the inflation Germany had to adopt a totally new finance policy because the financial resources exhausted the capital totally wanting. As private orders were non-existent the State had to create work by itself, giving orders to restart the economic machine which admittedly had been financed on short-term credits. It was impossible to avoid "resort to the reserves of the future." But success came in the shape of reduction in unemployment from 6 to 1.7 millions and an increase of State revenues by 2 milliards yearly.

Now the chief thought must be to use the reserves created to pay back credits and to consolidate short term obligations. As quickly as new capital is formed it must be made to flow in a straight line to the capital market where it will be absorbed for funding the floating debt. The nationalist-socialist government will furnish proof that it can and will master the present problems."—Transocean Kuo Min.

AROUND THE COURTS

LANTAU ISLAND MURDER

Further evidence was given by the widow Yip Choi before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday, when proceedings were continued against 5 Chinese charged with the murder of one Au Man Fai, at Lantau Island on September 2.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor prosecuted.

Continuing her evidence Yip Choi, widow of the deceased, said that after her husband had been assaulted and dragged away, ten men came into the hut and began to ransack it. Ho Wah and Tung Kwai came out and asked her where the rest of the money was and later tied her and her two daughters to a tree. A thorough search was then made by the whole gang which lasted a few hours. After this the whole gang dispersed.

HER RELEASE

After some time Lum Kam and some others came and untied them. She then went to the back of the hut where she saw the body of her husband lying on its back. She found, that money which she had kept in a leather case amounting to $210 in silver, and $270 in bank notes, and 3 gold rings were missing.

The next day she saw a boat coming towards the island so she rowed out to it and made a report. The European (Mr. Gandy) went ashore with her and viewed the body.

At this point His Worship asked the defendants whether they had any questions to put to the witness.

The first accused said that he knew nothing of the assault as he was ill and never went out.

The second accused said that he had no grudge against the deceased and was falsely accused of the murder. Cross-examined defendant admitted that he was at the scene of the assault on the night in question but was only in conversation with the witness Yip Choi.

The case was adjourned.

INDIAN SOLDIERS IN TROUBLE

Charged with assaulting Lam Hom, stall foki, at Gascoigne Road near Jordan Road on Wednesday night, two Indian soldiers pleaded not guilty before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. They were Draz Khan, 21 and Kundan Singh, 23 of the First Mountain Battery, stationed at Whitfield Barracks.

In outlining the case Inspector Shannon said that at about 9 p.m. on Wednesday the complainant and another friend were sitting on a lot of grass near Gascoigne Road when for some reason or other the first defendant assaulted him. Complainant resented this and retaliated and the second defendant was alleged to have struck him over the head with a stick.

The prosecution further stated that it was understood that the military authorities wished to deal with the case and under these circumstance the prosecution wished to withdraw the charge.

Lieut. G. B. Portman who appeared in Court informed the Magistrate that he had been instructed to say that the military authorities wished to deal with the case.

The Magistrate accordingly withdrew the charge and instructed complainant to keep in touch with Inspector Shannon, who would take him to see the military authorities.

Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, on a charge of stealing a rattan suitcase containing clothing to the value of $20.50, property of Tang Chi, widow, from the third floor of No. 116 Second Street, on Wednesday. Detective Sergeant Kinnear said that the defendant walked into the floor, the door of which was open, while the complainant was away and stole the suitcase. The complainant met the defendant on her return on the staircase with the suitcase under his arm.

SOLID PETROL

New Safe And Cheap Motor-Fuel

Solid petrol, which seems to be the long-sought safe fuel for aeroplanes and motorcars, was exhibited at the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at New York University. When four explosive bullets were fired into it at close range from a rifle it did not explode. It did not even ignite until some of it had become liquefied by the pressure from the fourth bullet, and then the fire was easily quenched by stamping the liquid into a bank of earth.

The new fuel, a reddish jelly-like substance, is the result of experiments begun in 1919 by Dr. Adolph Prussin, of New York.

In a small test-engine the new fuel developed 2.26 horse-power at 1,025 revolutions a minute. The consumption of fuel was .71lb. per horse-power hour. Liquid petrol in the same engine produced 2.41 horse-power at 1,125 revolutions a minute, but the consumption of fuel was .92lb. per horse-power hour.

In proof that this fuel can be stored without danger and will not burn even in presence of great heat unless flame be actually applied to it, the inventor put a lump of it on a hot plate over a strongly burning gas-jet. The material retained its form and could be cut with clean edges. When it was lit with a match a puff of breath was sufficient to put it out.

The inventor does not claim that the fuel will work with the same economy in a large engine of, say, .35lb. consumption per horse-power hour as it will in a small one like the test-engine; but he does claim as its advantage, besides fuel economy in small engines, its usefulness for ordinary domestic uses, and that it can be stored with complete safety and without loss of effectiveness. The advantages of employing it in aeroplanes as an insurance against accidental fires or fires set up by tracer bullets from enemy machines in war are obvious.

The new fuel costs in small quantities about one cent (a half-penny) a gallon more than liquid petrol, but in large quantities it will probably cost two to three cents less a gallon than the liquid, and its form makes it possible to handle it without tanks, pipes, or other expensive apparatus.

HOME AIR SERVICES

Our Aeronautical Correspondent writes:—

The appointment of this committee marks the second stage in the Government's plan for helping the establishment of regular air services in Great Britain. The local authorities, many of which have joined the transport section of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors, appealed to the Government some months ago for sound advice concerning the lines on which air services at home were likely to develop, and the Secretary of State for Air assured them that a survey of the country had been taken in hand. It is believed that the report based on that survey will be ready some time in September.

The report should indicate the routes which are likely to be served, the main and the secondary ports of call, the prospects of night flying and the probable consequent need of route and airport lighting. Some decision will then have to be taken as to the places at which aerodromes are necessary or desirable and the steps which must be taken to provide them. Up to the present it has been the policy of the Government to rely on municipal enterprise, assisted by grants from Government funds. The constitution of the new committee suggests that financial as well as technical matters will come within its scope and that an attempt will be made to provide on a national basis for the air lines which may be expected to be organized within the next few years.
